COUNCIL OF LEAGUE HAS NEW LINE-UP

Election of Canada to Seat Gives British Empire Additional Representative on World Committee

AMERICA HOLDS FOUR SEATS NOW

Senator Dandurand, Former President of League Assembly, Probable Nomininee of Dominion

GENEVA, Sept. 15.—Canada, Finland and Cuba were elected tonight to the League of Nations Council, to hold seats for three years. The council is composed of fourteen members. The other members are Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan and Germany, which hold permanent seats in perpetuity, and China, Columbia, Chile, Rumania, Poland and Holland, which are non-permanent members.

The new line-up means that the council contains four countries representing the American continent, and has created special interest among delegates because of the particularly friendly relations existing between Canada, Cuba and the United States. From another standpoint the election caused interest, as it was an absorbing nature, that is because Canada is a member of the British Empire. Hence, in the view of numerous delegates, the election of the British Empire on the council is increased.

Presumably Senator Raoul Dandurand will represent Canada in the Council. He was president of the 1925 assembly, he speaks English and French with fluency, and is popular in Geneva political circles. Dr. Aristides Aguirre Bethancourt, Minister to Berlin, may be the choice of Cuba. He has long been one of the most prominent figures in League activities and served as president of the recent international conference on transit and communications.

Canada won her victory by a narrow margin, getting twenty-five votes, or one more than the absolute necessity. Cuba led the vote with forty votes, and Finland came next with thirty-three.

CANADIAN DINNER

The Canadian delegation gave a dinner tonight at which 200 delegates were present. President Motta, of Switzerland, President King of Liberia, Sir Austen Chamberlain, and Senator Guani, President of the League, were among the guests. Senator Dandurand gave the toast to the King, and then pledged President Motta, King and Guani. Senator Guani, in the course of his remarks, said that the League of Nations had become a practical emblem of the solidarity of the human family.

Senator Dandurand, in a statement to the Associated Press tonight said: "I am sure Canada will highly appreciate the honor implied in the expression of confidence manifested by today's election in the Assembly. It is the first time a British Dominion has been called on to participate in this way in joint responsibility of effort to settle world difficulties."

Committee of Direction Reports on Shipments

KELLOWNA, Sept. 15.—The Committee of Direction in a statistical report states that up to September 12 it had handled from all parts of the interior over 3,000 tons of vegetables, and 853,946 packages of fruit. Following his visit to Coast cities, the chairman states that he was not at all satisfied with some of the fruit shown him and warns shippers that the Committee of Direction does not exist as a shock absorber between indifferent shippers and disappointed purchasers.

DR. BORDEN NOMINATED IN NELSON

Conservative Convention Selects Candidate for Constituency Represented in House by Late Premier

CONTEST LIKELY TO BE VIGOROUS

All Speakers Express Confidence That Riding Can Be Won Regardless of Any Possible Opposition

NELSON, Sept. 15.—At one of the largest political conventions ever held in Nelson, Dr. Loren E. Borden, physician, was nominated as Conservative candidate for Nelson riding in the by-election necessary within the next few months in consequence of the death of the late Premier Oliver, former member.

Former Mayor Charles F. McHardy, who twice opposed Mr. Kenneth Campbell for the seat, was Dr. Borden's only rival for the nomination. Dr. W. O. Rose, a former member for Nelson, who placed Dr. Borden in nomination, was also proposed, but declined to allow his name to go before the convention. The Conservatives, who were organized in Nelson, who placed Dr. Borden in nomination, was also proposed, but declined to allow his name to go before the convention.

VENTURE FOR CHURCH URGED

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL OF ANGLICAN CHURCH WOULD HAVE NEWSPAPER

Supplementary Hymnal Decided Upon at Meeting of Both Houses

KINGSTON, Sept. 15.—The existing hymnal of the Church of England in Canada will remain unaltered, but a supplementary collection of hymns will be compiled to be used in conjunction with it. It was decided this afternoon at a meeting of the House of Bishops and Lower Houses of the General Synod.

In urging the publication of a supplementary collection, the speaker pointed out that the present hymnal, compiled twenty-two years ago, was lacking in vigorous songs demanded by the youth of today in organizations as Summer camps.

TO PUBLISH NEWSPAPER

The report of the executive council was presented by the Archbishop of Huron and adopted. One of the features of the report was a recommendation favoring the establishment of a newspaper under the direct auspices of the church. This matter was referred to the general body of religious education. It included also the discontinuance of the Federal war service commission during the turning over of the commission's funds to the council for social service.

A comprehensive report on the work of the national laymen committee was presented by Mr. George B. N. Nicholson, ex-M.P., of Chapeau, the chairman of the committee. The report emphasized the need of more priests and workers in the West.

SHIP SUNK IN 1812 RAISED YESTERDAY

WASAGA BEACH, Ont., Sept. 15.—The schooner Nancy, sunk during the war of 1812 in the mouth of the Nottawasaga River, was raised yesterday. Silt, which has covered her water-soaked oak timbers for over a hundred years, is being cleared away, showing that the planks are burnt through in places, so fierce was the fire which sank her.

Air Services Oppose Law Against Flights

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Despite the loss of life in recent trans-oceanic flights and serious hazards attached to flights of this nature, members of the Government's air co-ordination corps voted against favoring any specific government prohibition of pioneering flights.

Former President Taft Celebrates Birthday

QUEREC, Sept. 15.—Former President William Howard Taft, and at present Chief Justice of the United States, is today celebrating his seventieth birthday at his Summer residence at Murray Bay, Que. near here. Mrs. Taft, two sons, a daughter, and no less than ten of his grandchildren attended the celebration. Spoken to over long distance telephone from here, Mr. Taft said: "I am feeling better than I have for some time."

HEAVY VOTE IN IRISH CONTEST

Late Last Night Impression Was Government Had Won—Actual Count of Ballots to Begin Today

NO RESULT SURE TILL END OF WEEK

DUBLIN, Sept. 15.—The impression late tonight is that the "Orange" Government has made a splendid showing throughout the country and probably would have an effective working majority in the Dail. Compared with the last election in June, the polling all around today was much heavier; this is considered to have been in favor of the Government nominees. Approximately seventy per cent of the electorate recorded their votes in Dublin and throughout the twenty-six counties. There was no untoward incident reported from any part of the country.

FEWER CANDIDATES

DUBLIN, Sept. 15.—The slogan for polling day in the Irish Free State was "Vote, vote, vote, no matter for whom," and reports from returning officers at many places tonight indicate a fairly heavy poll, which it is considered should favor the Government's chances.

The election today was for members of the Dail. The chief parties concerned are the Government party, headed by President William T. Cosgrave, and the Fianna Fail, of which Eamon de Valera is the leader.

COUNT SHORTENED

The fact that there were 300 fewer candidates than in the last general election and that three of the smaller political parties were eliminated from the contest simplified to a great extent the task of recording preferences under the system of proportional voting, which generally applies to the less-instructed among the electors.

The polling booths remained open until 10 o'clock this evening, and counting will begin tomorrow. There is no indication as yet as to how the balloting has gone, but the Government candidates are quite hopeful of the result. The results may be known by tomorrow night or Saturday, but the general results will not be definite until next week.

MINING DELEGATES VISIT BRITANNIA

VANCOUVER, Sept. 15.—Mining experts visiting British Columbia with the Empire Mining and Metallurgical Congress express themselves as particularly interested and surprised at the size of some of the developed properties, such as the Sullivan Mine at Kimberley and the Britannia on Howe Sound which they have visited in this province.

Today the majority of the delegates went direct from Victoria to Britannia on the steamer Princess Alice, and on arriving there were shown over the big concentrating mill at the beach by company of officials. The mill handles approximately 4,000 dry tons of ore a day.

VETERANS OPPOSE WATERWAYS PLAN

EDMONTON, Sept. 15.—Voicing their firm opposition to the proposal of the Canadian Government for joint development with the United States of the St. Lawrence River waterways, delegates to the tenth annual convention of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, at today's session, adopted unanimously, after a most interesting discussion, a resolution of the Edmonton unit to this effect.

Grand Duke's Widow Dies in English Home

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Countess Torby, wife of the Grand Duke Michael of Russia, a cousin of the late Czar, died last night at her home after a long illness from heart trouble.

The Grand Duke was with her when she died.

Salmon Fleet Sets Out

BELLINGHAM, Sept. 15.—The fleet of two dozen purse seine boats that moored here during the ten-day closed salmon fishing period left the harbor this afternoon for advantageous points in the Gulf of Georgia and other British Columbia fishing grounds, to be on hand at daylight. The season reopens at midnight.

ENTRIES IN AIR DERBY NUMBER 57

Race From New York to Spokane, Beginning Monday, Will Combine Three Separate Contests

ELEVEN PLANES TO GO WITHOUT STOP

Second and Third Contests Carried on at Same Time Are for Passenger Planes With One or More Stops

ROOSEVELT FIELD, Sept. 15.—Eleven airplanes had arrived here today as the advance guard of the fifty-seven entries in the Spokane Derby which begins on Monday with its western goal at Pella Field, Spokane.

Although no plane entered in the nonstop classification had appeared, officials said that seven were expected to take part in the race. The latest entrant is Duke Schiller and Phil Wood's Royal Windsor, which abandoned the proposed Windsor, Ont., to Windsor, England, transatlantic flight.

The two classifications beside the nonstop flight are class A and class B.

The former class will take off from here Tuesday morning at 5:30 o'clock, each plane carrying two passengers besides the pilot, and making one overnight stop.

WINDSOR PLANE

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Sept. 15.—With few days remaining before the New York-Spokane air derby, "Duke" Schiller and Phil Wood tonight anxiously waited the dawn to return to Windsor, where they will put their monoplane, Royal Windsor, in condition to contest honors in the nonstop class.

With fair weather promised for a flight by way of Albany and Buffalo, they were ready to leave the beach here early tomorrow.

SIR A. CURRIE ENTERS SUIT

WAR-TIME COMMANDER OF CANADIAN ARMY CORPS SUES FOR LIBEL

Action Is Result of Article Published in Port Hope Guide on Taking of Mena

PORT HOPE, Ont., Sept. 15.—A writ has been issued in the Supreme Court of Ontario by Sir Arthur Currie, G.M.C., K.C.B., against Frederick William Wilson, editor of the Port Hope Guide, and William Thomas Rochester, Preston, who is alleged to be the author of the article in issue, which contained charges of libel. The libel complained of by the plaintiff was an article entitled, "Mena," which appeared on June 13, 1927, and which criticized the taking of the city by the Canadians before the armistice was proclaimed.

PINE PASS ROUTE HAS EASY GRADE

Route West of Rockies Best to Reach Area North of Peace River, Says Hon. S. F. Tolmie

VANCOUVER, Sept. 15.—Relief for the settlers of the Peace River section of the Western Canada is being given by the proposed route of railway transportation, to carry the produce of that huge area economically to market is urgently needed, stated Hon. S. F. Tolmie, M.P.

He remarked that last Spring in the House of Commons he supported the resolution of the Peace River members, but that he went further than the Kennedy resolution and asked that the Government look into the matter of routes. Several possible railway outlets had been proposed and each had strong support.

MORE MARRIAGES BUT FEWER BIRTHS

OTTAWA, Sept. 15.—Canadian marriages are increasing. During February last 4,322 marriages were recorded in the Dominion, an increase of 321 over February of 1926. The total of 4,322 is a record for all years from and including 1921.

Births in the Dominion for February last showed a decrease of 1,101, as compared with February, 1926. During February 17,181 births were recorded, while in February, 1926, the total was 18,282. Of the total this year Quebec's share was 6,049, leaving 11,132 for the other provinces. The falling off was contributed to by all nine provinces. Twins numbered 232, while there were three sets of triplets in which all children were born alive.

PRINCE GEORGE FLIES TO PARIS

LONDON, Sept. 15.—As an ordinary passenger, Prince George flew over the channel to Paris this afternoon. The journey took three hours owing to a strong head wind.

CARS CAUSE GAVE-IN OF COAL MINE

Loaded Cars Leave Track and Knock Out Props Under Tunnel Roof—Rock Precipitated

FOUR MEN CAUGHT; THREE RESCUED

Miners Held by Edge of Debris Are Taken Out Little Injured—Man Covered by Falling Mass

CELESTINE, Wash., Sept. 15.—One man was believed to have been killed and three others narrowly escaped with their lives in a cave-in today in mine No. 7 of the Northwest Improvement Co. The four men were riding on two coal cars when they were struck by a large mass of rock and coal in the tunnel. Three of the men caught on the edge of the slide were taken out today, slightly injured. But the fourth, Stanley August, fifty-five, was almost directly under the mass of falling rock, and his rescued comrades held little hope that he escaped almost instant death.

SHEEP DISPLAY WILL BE LARGE

Object of Promotion Fair at Duncan Is to Develop Industry on Vancouver Island

WILL BE FIRST IN PROVINCE

In conjunction with the Cowichan Fair, which is being held for the first time at Duncan, B.C., the Sheep Promotion Committee of Vancouver Island, in conjunction with the Department of Agriculture, have arranged for a Sheep Fair.

The Sheep Promotion Committee of British Columbia has been making a close canvass, with the assistance of members of the Flock Masters' Association of Vancouver Island, to secure exhibits for the show, and as a consequence approximately 400 animals will go before the judges.

The committee is concentrating on five types of sheep, Shropshires, Oxford, Suffolks, Southdowns and Hampshire. The Island has been well covered, and the exhibit will be representative. To encourage the introduction of better stock into the Island flocks there will be a sale of animals on Saturday, at which the number of sheep to be in order to enable small breeders to purchase. Fifty rams will be placed on sale.

HEART ATTACK PROVES FATAL

Dr. Henry McLaren Dies Suddenly at William Head Quarantine Station, Following Seizure

LONG ASSOCIATED WITH SERVICE

Death came with painful suddenness yesterday at noon to Dr. Henry McLaren, of the medical staff of William Head Quarantine Station. In the absence of his chief, Dr. Chester Brown, who is relieving Dr. P. Cox at the Vancouver Station, Dr. McLaren was in charge.

At nine thirty o'clock he had cleared a vessel for Victoria, and started across the grounds from the wharf to walk to his office, when he had a seizure. Dr. Geddes, a medical practitioner residing in the neighborhood, was called, and the Victoria medical immigration officer, Dr. A. E. Clendenann, was summoned from Victoria. Dr. Geddes had the patient removed to his residence on the grounds, and by the time Dr. Clendenann arrived Dr. McLaren was feeling better. While talking to him cheerfully Dr. McLaren suddenly collapsed, and died within ten minutes in the presence of Dr. Clendenann, an old college associate as well as professional colleague.

Dr. McLaren, who was appointed in May, 1926, to this office, had been connected with the quarantine service at a number of stations in Canada, coming here from Quebec when Dr. Cox was transferred to Vancouver. He was the son of Mr. John McLaren, a partner in the late lumber firm of James McLaren & Son, Buckingham, Quebec, and was very well known in the Ottawa Valley. He was born in 1865 at Wakefield, P.Q., and graduated in medicine at Toronto University in the same class as Dr. Clendenann.

He served as a young man in the Northwest Rebellion, and was a captain in the Canadian Army Medical Corps in the Great War. For two years he served in the Bramsholt Canadian Medical Board, and one year in Providence, Rhode Island, in the British and Canadian recruiting mission.

In addition to Mrs. McLaren, one daughter, Mrs. John Gibbs, of Shawinigan Falls, Quebec, survives. His brother is Mr. John A. McLaren, of Ottawa, and there are two sisters, Mrs. McCormack, of Ottawa, and Mrs. Theodore McGillivray, of Whistler, Ont.

The body is at the B.C. Funeral Co. premises, pending arrangements for the funeral.

HEAT WAVE IN MID-WEST ENDS

Cool Air Moves From West and Rain Falls—Death List Totals More Than Twenty

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—A Spring-like shower late today started the rout of September's midsummer heat wave, in which Middle West towns sweltered for four days. Darkening clouds intervened earlier in behalf of a parched country, driving the mercury slowly downward here from its high point of 93 degrees, reached shortly after noon. Hourly readings had equalled those of yesterday, and the temperature threatened to exceed the 95-degree record of the two previous days. Like readings were reported throughout the Central States, the highest being 100 at Peru, Ill.

The shower was of short duration in Chicago's downtown loop district. The sun was shining brightly once more when the National League Brooklyn-Chicago baseball game was called off by thirty blocks away on account of rain.

A cool air was moving from the West, however, and forecasters predicted further rain tonight with temperatures around the seventies by Saturday.

The break in the heat wave found a total of more than a score of deaths attributed to the unprecedented rise in temperature.

TYPE OF SETTLER MOST IMPORTANT

Newcomer of Today Will Be Father of the Canada of the Future

The careful selection of prospective settlers, their training and placement, the provision of a well-built house and barn, under a plan of sufficient capital to purchase a cow, chickens and farm machinery, and the supervision which aids them in adapting themselves to the new environment, offer strange contrasts to the difficult conditions for immigrants which prevailed in both Canada and the United States until the close of the nineteenth century.

Just now, when immigration is commanding renewed attention in Canada, an unusually powerful novel has been published portraying the experiences and hardships of the first colonies of Scandinavians in South Dakota, "Gleanings in the Earth," by O. E. Roivas. Originally published in Norway, it was quickly recognized as one of the classics of Norwegian literature and has now been translated into Swedish, Finnish, German and English. The author, a professor of Scandinavian literature in one of the Central Western universities in the United States and himself an immigrant, translated the book into English.

The exultant strength of the hero in the conquest of the plain, the joy of the European peasant in his ownership of a great stretch of Western land, and the ever-growing belief in the rich future of the West, constitute the motive force which permits Per Hausa to toll on persistently amid locust plagues, blizzards, poverty and the dull monotony of the long winter. For the woman, the hardships are even more vivid and it is only loyalty to him and the family that holds her to the task since she sees no corresponding vision of her share in the building of an empire. The characters are living men and women, and the driving urge one finds in the humble conflict of the daily round, constitutes the triumph of the author's art. The dramatic interplay of heredity and environment in shaping each character makes the book a great epic of the life of the West.

CHANGE IN RURAL LIFE

As one compares life in the West today with that of fifty years ago, the conclusion becomes clear that the railroad, the automobile, the telephone, the radio and agricultural machinery have brought a change in rural life no less material than that which has taken place in the city. Though, looking back over 100 years, the successful transformation of the wild prairie into settled farms seems to have been a spectacular triumph, the changes which are now in process are no more slow and no less significant to the building of Canada than that which has gone before. The period of development of resources and growth of population which lies ahead of Canada will eventually be considered of outstanding significance in the building of the nation.

NO ONE HURT

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 15.—The first "battle" of the season between the fleet of liquor smugglers now gathered off the Southern California coast preparatory to landing "wet goods" for the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays, and the fleet of United States coastguard cutters mobilized here to prevent the liquor from being smuggled ashore, was fought ten miles off Point Loma today.

The coastguard cutter No. 255, commanded by Boatswain T. Noland, blazed away for forty minutes with her machine guns and one-pounders at the alleged run-running tender Hawk, said to be the fastest vessel engaged in the trade.

The great speed of the Hawk enabled her to run away from the coastguard cutter's shellfire, escaping in the haze without being hit, as far as could be seen.

THE FOOL'S MOTLEY

General Hertzog (Premier of South Africa): "Sorry, Madam, but we cannot allow South Africa to be represented at this function in such a provocative costume." (The controversy over the new design for the South African flag still continues.)

—The South African Nation.

Those who are most eager to see the rapid development of the country are inclined to deprecate the restrictions on immigration which are now in force. They feel that the opportunity of the country are so great that no one should be turned away, and they know that each new arrival creates new demands for the products of farms and factories. Self-interest, local pride and patriotism combine to make them eager to see a settled, prosperous nation. There is but one sure method, however, of attracting settlers to a new country. Those who arrive first must find conditions favorable to improving their economic status in order that they will pass words on to their friends that the country offers rich opportunities which made the new adjustments and trials of immigration worth while. Lack of employment, failure and great discouragement on the part of new arrivals will do much to deter their friends. For this reason, a wise policy will permit only such a number to come as can be quickly and successfully absorbed. When those in crowded foreign countries fully increase of 64.4 per cent. This rise in the volume of immigration is the normal aftermath of the prosperity which began in 1925. If the excellent crops which are now in prospect materialize, a further rise in monthly arrivals is to be anticipated during 1928—Monthly Letter of the Royal Bank of Canada.

V.C. SOLDIER'S WIDOW ASSISTED

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Money gifts from £25 downward, and numerous offers of situations have reached Mrs. McKean, the young widow of Captain George Burton McKean, formerly of Edmonton, Alberta, who won the Victoria cross while serving with a Quebec regiment in the war. He was also the recipient of the Military Medal and the Military Cross for heroic service.

Mrs. McKean, who has been in almost destitute circumstances, has begun to pay off pressing debts with the gifts she is receiving as a result of publicity given her case.

Fire Burns Busses

PORT ANGELES, Sept. 15.—Joe Bourm was slightly burned and three large school busses and the garage of the Crescent consolidated school district were destroyed by fire at St. Joyce, sixteen miles west of here yesterday afternoon. The fire was caused by a short circuit in one of the school busses.

Gold Rush Staged in Staid Philadelphia

Following reports of the finding of $20 gold coins in a Philadelphia excavation, swarms of treasure hunters began to dig feverishly. Searchers in this "pay dirt" have unearthed several valuable pieces of other discoveries. No one knows the exact origin of the golden treasure.

Blondes Prove Hardier Girls In Long Swim

TORONTO, Sept. 15.—No longer need anyone look upon the beautiful blonde lady as a fragile and ethereal being of temperamental moods. At the recent gruelling twenty-one-mile marathon swim here it was a blonde girl who swam farthest, a blonde who stayed in the water longest.

The only brunette who was awarded a prize was the dark-haired Edith Hedin, the last Toronto girl to leave the water, and she was frightened by an eel when she vaulted into her boat. The blonde displayed more presence of mind than the brunettes and were, on the whole, calmer. The women entered in the swim certainly showed much greater endurance generally than the men, for, when at 4 o'clock the official check-up of the swimmers was made, of the thirty-five women in the competition twenty per cent were still going on with the terrific endurance test, while only four per cent of the men entered had stuck it out until that time.

Every doctor at the hospital remarked that the physical endurance of the women swimmers was better than the men. The women officials who had examined the girl entrants declared that they had never seen a finer group of women, and the admiration, from all who watched closely, was that those thirty-five mermaids made a better showing than the male competitors.

WOMEN ARE REAL BUYERS OF AUTOS

TORONTO, Sept. 15.—Women, who are the purchasers of practically everything used by the modern family, are, unofficially, conceded to be the real purchasers of most of the automobiles. While statistics show a slight majority of men purchasers, motor salesmen admit that it is practically always the woman who is the actual "power behind the throne" in selecting a car. Curiously enough, men depend upon women to buy their pocketbooks, the percentage of women buyers of leather goods being sixty-seven per cent, as against thirty-three per cent of men buyers, according to survey. As purchasers of men's socks women outnumber men three to one, while almost twice as many women buy neckties as do men. In the purchase of electrical goods, the score stands four to one in favor of the women. Women, in fact, buy more of almost everything in New York than do men, with the sole exception of automobiles, the statistics indicate, and even here, it is a question whether more automobile sales are actually originated by women than by men.

Automobile owners of Poland are giving up their custom of selling their old cars to friends, and instead of their over to dealers to dispose of.

FLESH FROM LEG GRAFTED IN BRAIN

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15.—(New York World Special.)—After removing a tumor and a portion of the brain from a patient yesterday, Dr. W. E. Dandy, brain surgeon of the Johns Hopkins Hospital, replaced the brain part with flesh from the man's leg.

Assigning an assistant to remove from the patient's leg a portion of tissue corresponding roughly in texture to the brain, the surgeon cut away the tumor, together with the attached piece of brain, and then grafted on the leg tissue. He then drilled several small holes in the piece removed from the skull, made similar holes in the skull and then sewed the bone together. The operation took about two hours.

FOOTBALL STAR GIVES BLOOD

Raymond Bries, a young Parisian sportsman and formerly one of the star football players of the Cercle Francaise, is believed to hold the world's record for blood transfusions. During the past two years he has given his blood to 181 patients, most of whom were near death. Bries is twenty-nine years old.

passing away. A more democratic age was being ushered in, having for its object the bettering of the condition of the great mass of the people. Mutual understandings, mutual agreements were to play an important part in the diplomacy of the future. Boundaries, color, foreign languages, foreign tendencies had to be overcome, he said. The fear of the unknown had been the great barrier to understandings between nations. Nothing was gained, as Mr. Hoover had said at the Pan-American conference, from a condition of poverty of others. Diplomacy was confronted today with the problem of providing that people should be able to earn, and to pay.

TIME FOR CHANGE

He had added that the time had come when nations should cease to tend to other nations, and nations should cease to borrow from other nations only for productive enterprises. Under such conditions the means for legitimate repayment will be provided, and the standard of living will be raised and war will cease.

"On the Pacific Coast," he said, "we were pausing for a time in the forward march of the Anglo-Saxon race."

"We are as a young giant. We are near the stars in God's great silent out-of-doors. We were saying to those in the East 'Stay in the East if you like your ways.' We will stay where we are building until the last star shines," he concluded.

HIS HONOR'S WELCOME

Lieutenant-Governor Bruce, in greeting the visitors, said that he welcomed them not only as speaking for the province, but also for the whole of Canada. He felt that it was reason for pride, that there were eighteen countries represented at the gathering.

He recalled that Nature had been very generous in its resources deposited here. It was fitting that the first visit that the organization had made outside of the United States was to Canada. This country grasped the friendly hand extended by the United States towards this country as that of an older brother. This country had been visited by two of the princes of the blood, and the Prime Minister of Great Britain during the past two months. It was now being visited by the princes of commerce of the United States.

Assemblies like this one were doing a great deal towards laying the foundations for the peace of the world.

On resuming his seat, the visitors from the United States rose and cheered His Honor to the echo.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Mr. Frank Branch Riley was called upon before the meeting closed, and in happy vein delivered a most amusing impromptu address.

Mr. C. P. W. Schwengers, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, acted as toastmaster at the dinner. He explained that when the council was invited to come to Victoria, and the invitation was accepted, it was on the understanding that it would be made a real international event. This was being respected, and there were eighteen countries represented in the gathering. The sessions of the day had been marked by the display of the very finest feelings of good will among the nations represented.

A number of the delegates and visitors were introduced during the evening. They included Mr. William Pigott, president of the organization; Mr. A. H. Evans, United States commercial attaché in China; Mr. O. K. Davis, secretary of the National Foreign Trade Council; Mr. W. R. Marsh; Mr. William Peck, representing Panama; Mr. J. T. Hardeman, of Seattle; Mr. H. Iwasaga, Japanese Consul at Vancouver.

A surprise was sprung during the proceedings of the evening, by a number of presentations being made to some of the members present, the event being carried out to the accompaniment of a continuous rhyming address, which was very amusing and well recited by the composer, Mr. Reginald Hincks. The recipients of the gifts were Captain Dollar, who in his absence had the present accepted by proxy; Mr. J. T. Hardeman; Mr. O. K. Davis; Mr. C. P. W. Schwenger; Mr. J. J. Donovan, of Bellingham, and Mr. F. J. Koster, of San Francisco, by proxy.

To Miss M. Goode a beautiful bouquet was presented in recognition of the services that she had rendered the organization in her capacity of secretary.

The evening closed with the singing of "God Save the King" and one verse of the American national anthem.

A traveler in the tropics came to a charming little creek and, wanting to swim, asked a native: "Is it safe here. Are there any sharks?"
"None, I assure you."
The tourist undressed and went into the water. Suddenly he became afraid again and asked the stranger: "You're sure there are no sharks?"

The other shook his head impatiently: "No, there are no sharks. The crocodiles have driven them all away."

TOURISTS MUST BE DEFLECTED

Mr. David Whitcomb
Stresses Effort to Capture Tourist Movement
for Pacific Coast

SAYS ATLANTIC SECURES CREAM

"Inducing more people to travel across the Pacific will not only build up our transpacific service and bring millions in revenue to the cities bordering on the Pacific, but it will breed a better understanding between the people of the Orient and the people of the Occident, and with this understanding will go millions of American money to the enterprises in China, Japan and the Philippines, with the result that the Pacific tourist travel will be the forerunner of investments which will open up latent resources and speed the day when the Pacific will outdistance the Atlantic as a trade area," said Mr. David Whitcomb, of Seattle, chairman of the Pacific Coast Empire Association, to the Pacific Foreign Trade Council yesterday afternoon on tourist traffic.

"This year 400,000 Americans will go to Europe, which is selling America more than $500,000,000 worth of scenery, souvenirs and sojourns each year, and although the theatre of world trade is shifting from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the nations of the Pacific are not as yet capitalizing on tourist travel," said Mr. David Whitcomb.

PEOPLE IN MOTION

The people of the world are in motion as never before, and the cities of the Pacific Coast, with interested groups in Japan, China, the Philippines, Hawaii and the islands of the Pacific, should organize to capture their share of world travel, said Mr. Whitcomb.

"Trade follows travel, and it is significant that foreign loans floated in the United States, most of them for Europe, during the first half of 1927, reached the record-breaking total of $786,000,000," said Mr. Whitcomb. "Because Americans have been going to Europe their capital has followed. Japan, China and the Orient need capital to develop their resources, and it is a wise financial policy for the people living on the shores of the Pacific Ocean to increase travel, which will be followed by a better understanding and larger investments."

Mr. Whitcomb said that while pleasure travel from the North Atlantic to Europe had jumped in spectacular fashion in the last four years, round-trip summer excursion business from the East to Pacific points had not increased and that he estimated that twice as many Americans are going on their vacations to Europe by steamers as are coming by rail to the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Whitcomb cited various steps which should be taken to increase travel to the Pacific Coast and the Orient. He urged Pacific Coast cities to invite travelers to see all of the Pacific Coast instead of one city alone.

POOL ADVERTISING

He suggested that the transcontinental railroads, the four transpacific steamship companies, the Government railroads in China and Japan, and the larger hotel and tourist companies in the Orient, pool their advertising appropriations to sell the Orient as a destination, just as Europe has been made the goal for 400,000 Americans this year. Hotels and railroads in the Orient should pay commissions to ticket agents and travel bureaus, as is the European custom, and they should make every effort to promote the Orient because of an exaggerated conception of internal troubles, and pointed out that for the fiscal year ending July 1, America's trade with China was five per cent more, and with Japan three per cent more than for the preceding year. Better and cheaper cable service, which will permit a greater volume of press dispatches dealing with

Working His Way Around the World

MR. J. MUNRO MACLENNAN
B.A. MacLennan, who is driving the globe to win an ice cream cone bet. He will work to pay his way around, earning enough on a tour in Ontario to make a start and now en route to Baskatchewan to catch his fare on the next leg of the trip by harvesting.

political, economic and travel conditions in the Orient would be beneficial, as the bulk of the news now coming out of the Far East is sensational in nature, and the American public has not grasped the real fundamentals of life in the Orient, said Mr. Whitcomb, who headed a trade commission of North Pacific business men to the Orient a year ago.

DISCUSSION ON SUBJECT

Mr. Hugh Mackenzie, general passenger agent of the Dollar Steamship Company of San Francisco, contributed to the discussion that followed, offering very practical means of grappling with this important matter. While there were various courses advanced, the main part of his remedy pointed to the joint action on the part of those connected with the development of this line of trade, and the use of the proper means of publicity to bring about the ends sought.

On this subject of the European traffic as compared with the transpacific trade in a tourist line, Mr. Mackenzie gave the figures to show that the first class travel only was declining across the Pacific, while it was year by year increasing on the Atlantic.

The transpacific trade in 1924 showed 166,750 first class passengers as sailing from the United States ports to Europe; in 1925 it increased to 175,000; in 1926 it was 186,000; and from the beginning of the year indications showed that there would be a substantial increase again this year.

DECLINE ON PACIFIC

On the other hand, in 1924 the travel from the ports of the Pacific to the Orient was only 8,585; in 1925 this went down to 8,300; in 1926 it only 8,175, and the figures for the present year as far as it went was indicative that it would be still lower.

The analysis showed that there were from twenty to twenty-two passengers went to Europe from the Pacific to the Orient; in 1925 this went down to 8,300; in 1926 it only 8,175, and the figures for the present year as far as it went was indicative that it would be still lower.

There had been on one day 25,000 passengers landed in New York. In view of what that meant to a port it might be well for the year to consider this matter and see if by proper advertising, by the co-operation of all those companies that were concerned, something could not be done to divert some traffic in a tourist line this way.

He noted that the hotels in the Orient were not on the whole the best that could be obtained. The Japanese railways and tourist bureaus had been approached in the matter of co-operating. There had not been a great deal of success attending it.

On the mileage basis, Mr. Mackenzie pointed out that the rates on the Pacific were not at all higher than on the Atlantic.

He alluded to the fact that there had been some sensational reports sent from the Orient at times by news agencies which had perhaps done harm, but this was being counteracted. He also suggested that through the transcontinental transportation men who would be assisting here this next week. It was proposed at that gathering to advocate some display advertising in this direction. Then again he felt that exhibitions of Oriental goods might have a beneficial effect in fostering trade. He argued that tourists were good spenders.

MR. FORD BUYS SMALL ESTATE IN S. AMERICA

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The New York World says that Henry Ford has bought 1,200,000 acres of land in Para, Brazil, from an American who holds that concession, for $42,000,000, and intends to use the land for a rubber plantation, according to a report reaching this city.

If successful in closing contracts with Para, the report says he plans to take 2,800,000 additional acres. This report follows upon publication of an article in The Brazilian-American of Rio de Janeiro, that Ford was about to invest $42,000,000 in rubber cultivation in Para. This publication says Ford will install 50,000 laborers in Tapajós and build a railroad across Para. The latter, it was said, probably would be started in two months.

Trail Smelter Plant Declared Unequalled

NELSON, B.C., Sept. 15.—Full of enthusiasm for the plant and processes of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada, the touring party of the American Electro-Chemical Society returned last night from their day's inspection of the big reduction plant at Tadenac. The delegates viewed and twenty plants on Tadenac Hill and then enjoyed the hospitality of the company at a banquet in Trail.

President S. C. Lind declared the reduction plant "the best-arranged, neatest and cleanest smelter he had ever inspected," while Secretary Colin G. Pink declared, "there is nothing like it in the world."

Introducing New Afternoon Frocks From the Leading Fashion Centres

Attractively Priced From
$25.00 to $47.50

The following are the "late news" features of the latest in Afternoon Frocks which will be found on display in our showrooms today.

CASCADING DRAPES

Often, very often, Fall Frocks ornament their slim hanging skirts with great cascades of fabric down one side, and exceedingly feminine frocks are the outcome.

FRINGE

Fringe does not hold itself to the evening mode alone, as in other seasons, but sways gracefully from many a daytime frock of this Fall.

RIPPLING INSETS

The Frocks for Fall have a favorite way of expressing gracefulness and girlishness, in rippling insets. Sometimes these are small and numerous; often generous and solitary.

DIAGONAL LINES

Necklines take a slanted path; hiplines, too. Even skirt hems take a diagonal course occasionally. The slanted line leads to chic.

TIERS
Tiers appear on skirts and bodices, even on sleeves this Fall. Here they form a bolero and run diagonally—after the most approved manner.

Campbell's beautiful Frocks are shown in the newest of fabrics and most delightful colorings that conform strictly to Fashion's "late news."

A Warm Home Starts a Cold Day Right

A piping hot breakfast in a warm, cozy dining-room. There's nothing like it on a bitter cold morning. To make rooms warm in early morning is one of the essentials of a good heating plant. To meet this demand surely, easily, and economically requires quick action, immediate response to the open draft, a full volume of healthful heat. These are just the advantages you will enjoy with a Sunbeam Warm-Air Circulating System.

And you'll find that every room in your home will be comfortably heated by fresh, moist, warm air all day long. But at the end of the month, when you figure up the cost of this better heating, you'll find that your Sunbeam has made a very worth-while saving.

Just see, phone, or write us today for full details.

"SO THIS IS LONDON"

LONDON, Sept. 15.—"So this is London," remarked the Prince of Wales in his best Canadian twang yesterday on arriving in his home town, as he held out his hand and felt the pattering of the rain. He and Prince George then entered the royal car and were taken to the palace.

AUSTRALIAN TO STUDY AT MAYO

Doctor Passes Through on Aorangi for Famous Surgical Institution at Rochester

STAFF CHANGE AT BAMFIELD STATION

To study American medical and surgical practice at the Mayo Institute, Dr. A. Verbruggen, of Guyra, New South Wales, arrived on the liner Aorangi yesterday afternoon. He has a fellowship at the famous institution, where his father is already connected, and brings his wife and two children, intending to spend three years at Rochester.

Dr. Verbruggen says the rural hospitals of his state have yet much to learn in standardization of equipment, on American lines, although much improvement has been brought about by the visit of Dr. Malcolm T. MacEachern, formerly of the Vancouver General Hospital, who is now in charge of that section of the work for the American College of Surgeons, and who recently paid a visit to the Antipodes for the purpose of studying methods and making suggestions. In the New England district where Dr. Verbruggen has been operating, long distances separate the public hospitals, and some medical men are operating their own premises to take care of patients under their charge.

Mr. S. Fitzpatrick, supervisor, who has been transferred from the Auckland station of the Pacific Cable Board to Bamfield station, arrived on the same steamer. He reports conditions somewhat quiet in New Zealand, with prospects of improvement, with the standardization of butter prices as a result of operation of the market control board.

Jaschka Heifetz, the celebrated violinist, traveled on the steamer as far as Honolulu, where he stayed to fill an engagement before sailing for San Francisco to commence an American tour.

ROTARY COVONOR ADDRESSES CLUB

"International Aspects of Rotary" was the subject of Mr. H. H. Manny, of Seattle, governor of First I district of International Rotary, in an address at the luncheon of the Victoria organization at the Crystal Garden yesterday.

Mr. Manny sketched the rapid growth of Rotary as an international body. He pointed out that there are now more than 2,000 clubs in existence in forty-two nations of the world.

Obituary

HARRISON—The body of Lionel Harrison, whose accidental death occurred Wednesday afternoon, will be conveyed to the Thomson Funeral Home, 1625 Quadra Street, from where the funeral will take place. Time and day of funeral will be given later. Mr. Harrison was a native of Manchester, England, aged twenty-six years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret Florence Harrison; his father, Frederick W. Harrison, now in England; two brothers, Richard E. and James Harrison, of this city; also one sister, Miss P. A. Harrison, also of Victoria.

JOLIFFE—The funeral of Florence Eleanor Joliffe will take place from the B.C. Funeral Chapel on Saturday morning at 8:40 o'clock, proceeding to the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, at the Willows, where service will be conducted by Rev. Father Buckley at 9 o'clock. Interment will be made in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Canadian Hunting Prospects Excellent

CANADIAN moose and deer hunting seasons are at hand and from reports reaching the tourist department of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company there is every indication that one of the best hunting seasons ever will be experienced.

Mike Bates sends word from his camps at Metagama, Ontario, that if the hunters don't get their deer and moose this season they will have nothing to blame but their poor shooting. He says that moose are very plentiful and expects it to be a great year in every way. From Schreiber, Ontario, where John Handel, outfitter, has been operating, the reports are just as reassuring. Handel says that the game has increased in increased numbers. As the C.P.R. line is the north boundary of the game preserve, hunters don't have to go very far for their quarry.

The news from Sheehan's Camp at Lake Penage, southwest of Sudbury, is also music to the hunter's ears. Deer here are reported to be very plentiful. Reports turned in by guides of Ogilvie Bros' Camps

Police Dog and Rattlesnake in Fight to Death

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Sept. 15.—A motion picture reel showing a novel form of combat—a police dog fighting and killing a rattlesnake—has been received in Rochester.

The dog was King Figo von Jensen, whose owner is C. H. Godshall, of the Ihmsen Ranch, near Victorville, California. With his amateur motion picture camera, Mr. Godshall photographed the battle to the death when "King" discovered a four-foot rattlesnake on the prairie near the Ihmsen Ranch. The dog harried the rattlesnake, dodging stroke after stroke of the deadly head, until finally King flashed he jumped in and caught the rattlesnake by the neck, where he was helpless to bite. Even then the snake gave "King" a battle, because of his strength and weight, and every move of the struggle was faithfully recorded.

The dog's only scar of the fight was a bite above the eye, but because the snake had lost venom through striking unsuccessfully many times, and because "King" was treated immediately after the fight, he did not suffer from it. According to his owner, "King" has killed twelve rattlesnakes this year.

Canada Maintains Position in Trade

Reviewing the standing of the more important countries in which New Zealand makes her foreign purchases, during each of the last four years, Canada has maintained her position as the fourth most important source of this trade, writes Acting Trade Commissioner Paul Bykes, Auckland, in the forthcoming issue of The Commercial Intelligence Journal. Goods of Canadian origin accounted for 6.8 per cent of the total imports in 1923, 8.1 per cent in 1924, 7.5 per cent in 1925 and 6.9 per cent in 1926.

In each of these years the United Kingdom has furnished about 50 per cent of the imports, the United States a proportion which has increased from 16 to 20 per cent, and Australia from 8 to 11 per cent. From the standpoint of volume, without reference to price fluctuations during the four years period, the 1923 total of imports of Canadian origin of $2,850,984 had increased to $3,914,404 in 1924, and to $3,916,237 in 1925, but fell off in 1926 to $3,431,533.

This latter figure, however, while less by some $500,000 than that of the previous year, was still $600,000 higher than that of 1923, and the drop of $500,000 is more than accounted for by the drop in imports of automobiles, chairs, tires, etc., from $2,020,000 in 1925 to $1,301,000 in 1926, a difference of some $700,000. This is due to the fact that certain firms who were shipping complete cars from Canada are now assembling them in New Zealand, together with the fact that the total imports of these have declined.

TRAGIC STORY TOLD IN LETTER TO PAPER

MONTREAL, Sept. 15.—A tragic story is told in the following letter from Mrs. R. Nash, of St. Henri, to a local paper: "Kenneth Alfred Nash, my son, now fifteen years old, fair hair, blue eyes, round features, has been absent from home five years. Last Sunday morning he called at the above address and just razzed the bell; then called through the door: 'Is that you, mamma?'"

"And, not thinking of my boy at the time, I said 'No! Your mamma's not here.'"

"I have since been told that it was my son Kenneth. But I have not heard or seen any sign of him."

Having completed the first unit of its projected port, which is to cost nearly $20,000,000, Antofagasta, Chile, has started construction of the second part.

Justice M.A. Macdonald Declares Merchant Is True Evangel of Peace

Unification of Human Race Through Commerce Pictured for Benefit of Delegates to Pacific Foreign Trade Convention

"Commerce is the great voice of peace. It can transform the earth into one vast brotherhood," declared Mr. Justice M.A. Macdonald, of the British Columbia Court of Appeal, in the course of an address before the Pacific Foreign Trade Council luncheon at the Empress Hotel yesterday.

"When we leave the ethical world for the material," the speaker said, "we find that trade, commerce and finance are internationalized. The fact is that modern society is one great organism, its parts interdependent and utterly unable to function alone. It is towards the attainment of this great truth with all its concomitant implications that mankind is struggling by slow and painful process. And who more than we can assist in hastening that day?"

"The merchant is the true cosmopolitan. He distributes the products of the world to all regions, providing for the wants of all, combining in friendly intercourse the ends of the earth, bringing them face to face by a common prosperity. He is a citizen of the world; the friend of all, the enemy of none; a stranger nowhere, at home everywhere; sailing all seas, travelling through all lands. He is the great vehicle of civilization, the great pacifier whose legitimate mission is to unify the human race."

"Commerce is the natural voice of peace. It can transform the earth into one vast brotherhood. Aided by science, sanctified by the Golden Rule, may it become the all-powerful stimulant to universal unity among the nations of the earth."

Speaking of the growing importance of the Pacific in the world scheme, Mr. Justice Macdonald said: "Today attention is directed to the Pacific Ocean, not only as a great highway of commerce, but also as the centre of diplomatic problems, which business men and traders cannot ignore, inherent in its strategic position as the gateway to the Orient. That is one fascinating avenue of study, from which thoughts of value may be gleaned and presented even by an onlooker."

"Then there is another avenue for equally productive thought. What I refer to are great movements from without, which are largely beyond the power of captains of industry to control. The other is a great movement within industry itself, which is within your control. It is the growth of cultural, or spiritual forces in industry, emerging as by step, behind the old conception of 'least effort' which formerly prevailed and reaching forward to a realization of higher values and ideals, viz., that industry and trade do not exist for profit alone, but for the service of society, not simply for the production and sale of goods, but for the promotion of well-being and the betterment of humanity—a conception that gives a new tone and a new spirit to life."

DRAWN PICTURE

Turning to the awakening of the nations of the Orient, the speaker said: "If I were an artist I would with a few strokes of the brush, a picture of the rising sun—the sun rising in the East, just emerging over the horizon of the one-time distant land of Cathay, China (I mean the time distant, for no lands are distant now), just emerging over the horizon of the Flower Kingdom of Japan, the Austro-Asiatic states of the East, the lands of the southern sea, casting its rays across the Pacific as it with beckoning hand it were inviting the peoples of the northern half of this continent to follow its gleam and explore the possibilities lying beyond it. It is a new sun in a new sky."

"But the picture would not be accurate if it carried with it the suggestion of the decline of Anglo-Saxon greatness, or the commercial or international pre-eminence. The Anglo-Saxon race will endure, for it is not admitted by leaders of thought in these Far Eastern lands that the English language will to an ever-increasing extent be the language of international trade."

"And language is like railways: it is a means of communication—one of the very best. Language control is as important to commerce as railway control, and that language will be English. This is admitted, particularly by the quick-witted people of Japan, who are studying the English language in their schools, making it compulsory in their high schools and in their grammar school courses, so that they may be the better equipped for the commercial race. We may therefore approach this question without fear for the future of our own race. But, having said that, I still assert that the picture is accurate when it suggests that the track for countless vessels of commerce leaving our shores in ever-increasing numbers, year succeeding year, will be across the boundless Pacific in the direction of this rising sun, where will be found the busy marts of the world, where men and nations congregate."

Mr. Justice Macdonald eloquently described the vast natural resources of China, and pictured the emergence of that country from its present backward state to a position of great economic importance in the space of a few decades. He said that the moment China's development was overhauled by intercontinental trade, he said.

"But," he went on, "these military adventures, these military bubbles playing on the surface. The great, deep currents of thought, life and interest in that country move steadily on to the desired goal—the united world under a settled government, free whether we like it or not, from foreign control."

"BRITAIN OF EAST"

The speaker styled Japan "the Great Britain of the East." He referred to the value of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, and recently replaced by a new power treaty entered into at the Washington Conference between Great Britain, France, the United States and Japan. The object of this pact, he pointed out, was to protect the rights of the high contracting parties in the regions of the Pacific Ocean.

"It is an important treaty," he declared, "it is to continue for ten years, subject to renewal on the usual terms found in such treaties. Under its provisions should any difficulties arise which may disturb the harmonious accord now existing, a conference must be held and an effort must be made to solve the problem. If I had time to go into details I would show that it is a sort of miniature League of Nations restricted to the Pacific region, and important to us in Canada because the United States is a signatory to that treaty and the problems of Canada, so far as the people on her Western slope are concerned, are identical with those of the Western slope of the United States. We should be able to work out the problems in a friendly and mutually satisfactory manner."

The question of immigration was the only difficult one on the horizon, Mr. Justice Macdonald declared. "Which," he said, "will result in an outlet for surplus population. Where will it be found? This question must not be discussed in a truculent spirit. That is the proper phrase. If there is any racial prejudice, I hope it will pass away. We have no right to retain racial antipathies against any group of men on earth. I have no doubt, however, that if colonies of Canadians or Americans settled down in fertile parts of Japan, taking up land and raising crops, and so on, ship, prejudice on their part would also develop. The two nations are entirely alike in that respect."

"Let me say that I have no doubt, as we do, on the Western Coast, on a policy of maintaining it for our own people and our own race, we assume that the superior race of the world, the art, the literature and the scientific attainments of the people of Japan entitle that great nation to respect as mankind. Let us join freely in according that respect. We have faith in the intelligence of the Japanese Empire that they will recognize that our views in this regard are reasonable and sound in the natural desire in every race to preserve itself. And the point of view I want to place briefly before you is that the British Empire, as we view it, or should be, and as time goes on and this discussion continues, I believe, will be, just as much interlarded with the racial type as we are in preserving ours."

EMPIRE VIEWPOINT

Turning to the Empire viewpoint, the speaker said: "The Empire for preserving our outlying dominions for the Caucasian race. You know the British Empire is planted in the seven seas. It girdles the globe. We have Australia and New Zealand in the Pacific. What would happen if in the future—true, far beyond our time, but what of it?—the world were to be ruled by nations by centuries—the great open spaces of our Empire, the Dominion of Canada, Australia and New Zealand, were peopled by another race?"

"We, looking into the future, far beyond our time, foresee the day when the base of our Empire will shift—when the population of this great Dominion, Australia and New Zealand will exceed that of the British Isles! The whole current of history points in that direction."

After expressing the hope for peace on the Pacific, Mr. Justice Macdonald said: "It is only the practice of the Golden Rule and the development of a world-wide public opinion, consecrated to peace that forms the final bulwark against war-like proclivities. The great temple of Peace must be built in the hearts of mankind."

Mr. Evans, commercial attaché at the American Embassy at Peking, spoke briefly on conditions in China.

It is a fascinating study, he said, to observe the emergence of the Chinese Empire from the backwardness of the past. Trade with China had grown to become ten per cent of the total trade of the United States; and the commerce was profitable to both countries. This trade was affected adversely by the recent military disunion in China, the end of which only the future would disclose. It was hard for a Westerner to conceive the hardships and the sufferings the Chinese were now undergoing.

The Pacific Coast was bound to share in the increasing measure in trade with the Orient. This trade must ultimately be a two-way traffic. There must be a return freight for ships and trains carrying goods destined for the Far East. If North America is to trade with China they must expect China to pay with her own goods.

The old standards were breaking down in China, partly as a result of violence and partly as a process of evolution.

The genius of the corporate life of North America resided in the fact that it did not rely on the individual. Mr. Evans declared, but functioned by teamwork. The importance of the individual in the development of the American corporate life was being submerged. The individual might fall by the way, but the system went on. In China there was no teamwork to compare with that on this side of the Pacific, Mr. Evans said.

City & District

"At Home" for Teachers—The principal and staff of the North Ward School extends a cordial invitation to all teachers of Victoria and district to attend an "at home" to be held in their school this evening, at 8 o'clock. On this occasion they will have the opportunity of meeting Mr. J. Stevens, of Tollington Park Girls' School, London.

South Park School—Commencement exercises will be held in the school auditorium this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Address will be given by Dr. S. J. Secretary Carl Stocker received an appreciative acknowledgment telegram from His Excellency.

Foresees Canada Outstripping U.S.

SASKATOON, Sask., Sept. 15.—"I sincerely predict that in 100 years, Canada will outstrip the United States," was the statement made by W. T. Cranfield, director of the Canadian Press Bureau at London, England, who paid a visit to this city recently.

Speaking of the Dominion, Mr. Cranfield said: "You have all the natural resources, a more invigorating climate, a finer race of people. They have a greater respect for morality and the things of life that count. Your traditions are finer, your people are more intelligent, based on sound consideration."

Mr. Cranfield gave it as his opinion that, the wheat crop this year will easily equal the big bumper crop of a few years ago. He thought that the prosperity of the British settlers who have come out to Canada within the last couple of years, were doing splendidly and "are a credit to themselves and the Soldier Settlement Board."

Mr. Cranfield has made an extensive tour of the West, studying the crop and economic conditions.

EX-KAISER'S YACHT SOLD

The ex-Kaiser's yacht, Meteor, was recently bought from the German Government by a private party, who has taken it from Alexandria, Egypt, to Venice. It had been fitted with a new set of sails, and on its trial trip before starting on its new berth, upset the weekly regatta of the British Boat Club when it blanketed several of the boats and then sailed right through the fleet.

B.N.A. DISTORTED SAYS DR. EDWARDS

Proposal Placed Before Alberta Subject of Comment in Address Here

"In the proposal which has been presented for the acceptance of Alberta, and later of Saskatchewan, the British North America Act has been distorted and perverted from first to last, without any regard to fair play or equity," declared the Hon. Dr. Edwards, M.P., to a meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce Hall last evening under the auspices of the local Orange Association. Dr. Edwards' address, he stated, was with a view to explaining to those in Victoria who were interested something about the interpretation of the British North America Act as it affects the relative rights and legislative powers of the federal and provincial bodies, while he sought also to give "the correct solution to a problem which has been troubling the citizens of the Prairie Provinces" in interpreting the B.N.A. Act as it related to natural resources and education in these provinces.

The British North America Act of 1867, 1871 and 1886, all passed by the British Parliament, together constituted Canada's constitution, and in each unit or province within the Dominion retained and controlled its own land and natural resources, the federal and provincial governments generally all matters of a local or private nature, including the right exclusively to make laws regarding education and the distribution of Indian reserves and lands for public works and defence, all land in Canada was in the right of the several provinces.

In the latter respect Dr. Edwards quoted Section 117 of the act, where it was noted that "the several provinces shall retain all their respective public property not otherwise disposed of in this act, subject to the right of Canada to assume any lands or public property required for fortification or defence of the country." Also, under Section 133, the status of the French language was set forth. Outside the Province of Quebec, the Parliament of Canada the French language had no constitutional status whatever, although, the speaker argued, there were certain propagandists who were endeavoring to build up in Canada a nation within a nation.

RESOURCES TAKEN

Although by the terms of Union in 1870 Rupert's Land and the North West Territories came under the protection of the Dominion Parliament, until such time as they could take over and handle their own property, by the Dominion Lands Act of 1872 the Dominion had appropriated for itself the lands of the acquired territory, and Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba were not provinces within the terms and meaning of the British North America Act because they had been deprived of their rightful property. In establishing the new provinces the Dominion Parliament, the speaker maintained, had no authority to change the distribution of legislative powers nor to alter in whole or in part the basis of Confederation.

Dr. Edwards described how the official organ of the Orange Association in Alberta had been used to educate the public of that province in respect of what was known as the Brouha Amendment to the Dominion Parliament Bill aimed at the restoration of Alberta of its natural resources. He also described the action of Premier Brownlee in altering certain words in the Brouha Amendment from "In accordance with the provisions of Section 17 of the Alberta Act, 1905" to "In accordance with the law of the province." Premier King had wired back that any changes in the amendment were the prerogative of the Government at Ottawa and must be carried out at Edmonton. The matter had finally reached the position of a resolution on the order paper, there being referred to the Supreme Court. At the opening of the 1927 session of Parliament, Mr. Edwards had given notice of motion that "in the opinion of this House the natural resources should be returned to the Prairie Provinces." He intends to bring it before the coming session, regarding it as one of the most important that has ever come before Parliament.

DOMINION STATUS

In conclusion Dr. Edwards spoke ironically of the attendance of Premier King and the Minister of Justice last Summer, when they had succeeded in "wresting from those transients over there a fuller measure of liberty for the down-trodden people of Canada. Premier King was so filled with the status of the British Empire that he apparently forgot all about the status of the various units under consideration, for his Government are the very people who advocate an inequality of status among the provinces of the Dominion," said the speaker.

In the course of the evening Dr. Edwards touched briefly on immigration. Last year the province of Saskatchewan had about 2,000 English-speaking immigrants, and about 12,000 non-English-speaking. Canada, he thought, had been altogether too eager to get population. Population was certainly needed for a country with such numerous resources and such immense burdens arising out of the war. But the character of the immigrant had not been given enough consideration.

"I would not grant a single foot of Canadian soil to any class of people whom we cannot hope to assimilate and make into Canadian citizens. We should not be harsh with strangers who come here from Continental Europe, but we should not permit these people to transplant to this soil the conditions which they found undesirable in the country from which they came," he maintained.

Rev. W. Lee presided, and a vote of thanks to the speaker was moved and seconded, respectively by Mr. P. V. Hobbs, past provincial grand master of the Orange Association.

VISITING CARS

NUMBER 21,158

REPORT SHOWS 76,153 MOTORISTS HAVE ENTERED VICTORIA IN EIGHT MONTHS

Tourist Season Not Over Yet—Sidney-Anacortes Ferry Still Busy

Customs figures for the months of January to August, 1927, inclusive, released yesterday, give a total of 76,153 motorists entering the city by way of Port Angeles, Bellingham, Anacortes and Seattle. The number of automobiles reaching a total of 21,158. Figures of traffic between Bellingham and Vancouver when received are expected to swell the number by several thousand.

Of this number the ferry Olympic, plying between Victoria and Port Angeles from June 11 to September 11, carried 5,317 automobiles and slightly over 30,000 passengers. The record for this particular route is 5,224 automobiles and 33,500 passengers. Many of the passengers, of course, were not motorists.

From Anacortes and Bellingham 7,017 automobiles brought 31,210 passengers to Sidney, an average of slightly over three passengers per car.

From Seattle 24,943 tourists entered Victoria with 8,817 automobiles, again an average of just over three passengers per automobile. Of the automobiles entering Victoria from the Sidney ferries 2,068 were Canadian automobiles with 6,081 passengers. American cars to the number of 5,009 brought 15,129 passengers.

By way of Seattle 933 Canadian automobiles brought 2,523 passengers while 7,884 American automobiles brought 22,420 passengers. Although figures now show that the average automobile carrying three passengers to these shores, hotels, stores and other institutions catering to the public intimate that a better class of tourists, spending more money than those of former years, are now sojourning on the Island.

Contrary to popular belief, the tourist season is not finished yet, visitors to the Vancouver and Island Publicity Bureau now averaging about fifty per day. The ferry plying between Sidney and Anacortes is also bringing its complement of visitors and will run on its present schedule of one round trip every day until October 31.

Dock Industrial Work to Receive Consideration

It was not known last evening what opportunity would be afforded Mr. William Phillips, manager of the industrial department of the Canadian National Railways, during his visit to this city to discuss various projects with the civic and Chamber of Commerce industrial committees in which the C.N.R. has pledged its support.

The civic industrial committee has been called to meet Monday for the purpose of resuming negotiations for the proposed worsted mill, but owing to the numerous engagements auxiliary to the sessions of the Pacific Furber Trade Council it is doubtful if the chamber's committee can meet until the pressure is over.

Mr. Phillips will take the opportunity of this visit to post himself with regard to the negotiations in connection with developments at Odden Point docks, in which his company is interested.

Evans and two fair passengers.

Thousands Attend at Crystal Garden Frolic

Two Performances at Royal Victoria Theatre Attract Full Houses—Miss Crossley, of Sidney, Is Lucky Winner of Contest

It was anticipated that hundreds would attend the United Commercial Travelers' Frolic at the Crystal Garden and at the Royal Victoria Theatre last evening, but fully three thousand persons thronged through the doors of the Garden and crowded both main ballrooms and the promenades. Throughout the building was a happy, pleasure-seeking crowd, which danced its way through the two large ballrooms and in the banquet-hall, where a new polished oak floor attracted hundreds of merry-makers.

The bathing pool, green and shimmering in the bright lights of the Garden, proved an enticing playground for scores of young people. Onlookers were there in hundreds, and the three refreshment booths were kept busy dispensing coffee and sandwiches or iced drinks.

Miss Crossley, Marine Drive, Sidney, with ticket 1,852, will have the choice of a Chrysler car, Model 62, or a round-the-world cruise on the C.P.R. Empress of France. The ticket was drawn by Miss Rena Marshall, of the KOMO Concert party.

Over two thousand people attended the two shows held at the Royal Victoria Theatre in conjunction with the frolic. Radio artists from KOMO, making their first personal appearance before the theatre-going public of Victoria, were accorded a rousing reception. The first house was packed to capacity, and the continual encores of some of the numbers necessitated a cut being made in the programme.

Second-house patrons lined up from the theatre entrance hundreds of yards along Broughton Street.

G. Donald Gray, chief announcer of KOMO, introduced the artists individually amidst loud applause. The task of introducing Mr. Gray to the audience fell to Sydney Dixon, popular lyric tenor, and announcer of the Pacific Coast radio station.

The programme followed: "Totem Concert Orchestra: 'On the Beach'." "Sydney Dixon, accompanied by orchestra: 'Ah, Moon of My Delight' ('Persian Garden'). (Lehmann)." "Rena Marshall, accompanied by orchestra: 'When Twilight Comes' (Tandler)." "Totem Concert Orchestra: 'In a Persian Market' (Kobayashi)." "Fred Lynch, accompanied by orchestra: 'Dawn of Tomorrow' (Deppen)." "G. Donald Gray, accompanied by orchestra: 'Goin' Home' (Dvorak)." "Totem Concert Orchestra: 'Minuet in G' (Beethoven); 'Melody' (Daven)." "Duet, Rhena Marshall and G. Donald Gray, accompanied by orchestra: 'Song of Love' ('Blossom Time'). (Rimberg)." "Birnbaum: Violin solo, selected."

Duet, Sydney Dixon and G. Donald Gray, accompanied by orchestra: 'Goin' Home' ('Force of Destiny'). (Verdi)." "Totem Concert Orchestra: 'Second Hungarian Rhapsody' (Liszt)." "Miss Rhena Marshall was presented with bouquet of chrysanthemums, sweet peas, gladioli and maldenian fern by Mrs. Sumnerfield on behalf of the management of the United Commercial Travelers' frolic committee."

EUGENICS MAKING PROGRESS IN ITALY

PADUA, Sept. 15.—Eugenics have advanced so far in Italy that couples about to marry can obtain certificates of "fitness to wed" from the Padua Central Hospital—provided they can meet the medical tests.

The establishment of this "diagnostic centre" has been decided on to pave the way for introduction of a system of compulsory examination of candidates for matrimony.

The eugenists in charge of the Padua "diagnostic centre" recognize that public opinion in Italy is not yet ready for a law making such certificates compulsory, but they hope that the institution will educate public opinion on the necessity for such a law.

A commission which recently investigated the matter reported in favor of compulsory prenuptial certificates, and the Italian Government has given a large subsidy to the Padua institution to help it in preparing the public mind.

At present anyone wishing to marry may avail himself or herself of the medical examination at Padua on payment of a small fee.

FAT MAN MUST RIDE ALONE

George Lovatt, of Dudley, England, is too fat to travel in a street car, omnibus or taxicab, so he rides in his own specially-built coach. When he stepped into a hansom cab the bottom fell out. He weighs 504 pounds, and claims to be the heaviest man in England. He wears a twenty-two-inch collar, and his little nephew has a suit made from one of Lovatt's vests.

MISS M. BELL IS CHARMING BRIDE

Quiet Wedding Takes Place at St. Mary's Church—Bride and Groom to Live in Alberta

A wedding took place last evening at 8 o'clock, at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, when Rev. A. E. de Numa officiated at the marriage of Mildred Hazel, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Bell, Pentland Road, Oak Bay, to Dr. William Wilberforce Bell, son of Rev. J. W. Bell and Mrs. Bell, of Vermilion, Alta. For the occasion, which was also the birthday of the bride, friends had decorated the church with masses of late summer flowers, hydrangeas, dahlias and asters being arranged with great effect, and during the ceremony the bride and groom stood beneath a floral arch. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was beautiful in her exquisite gown of ivory crepe-back satin, made in long-waisted style, the skirt having insets and godets of fine shadow lace and trimmed with true lovers' knots of white satin ribbon. Her lovely veil of embroidered net was arranged in cap fashion to her head with a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and maidenhair fern.

Miss Marjorie Bell, sister of the bride, was the most attendant, wearing a pretty frock of powder blue crepe de Chine, embroidered in silver, with pleated skirt forming two deep frills. Her picture hat matched her frock and was trimmed with touches of silver. She carried pink carnations and white sweet peas. Rev. F. J. Stevens, of Vermilion, was best man, the ushers being Mr. G. W. Scott and Mr. H. R. Brown. During the signing of the register Mr. D. A. Ellwood sang "Thanks Be to God."

A reception, attended only by relatives and intimate friends of the bride and groom, was held at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony. Mrs. Bell assisting in receiving the guests, gowning in navy blue Canton crepe with a black hat trimmed with gold and a becoming gold and black lace scarf. In the drawing-room, where the young couple stood to receive, were masses of flowers, the fireplace banked with plants and a profusion of dahlias, pink and mauve asters and sweet peas.

Dr. and Mrs. Bell left on the midnight boat for Vancouver, the bride traveling in a smart two-piece frock of sandalwood crepe de Chine, with a small felt hat to match. Her wrap was a beautiful charmer coat trimmed with a squirrel collar. After motoring to Portland, Dr. and Mrs. Bell will return to Vermilion, Alta., where they will make their home.

The bride graduated from the University of Alberta in 1926.

Convention Ladies Are Guests at Tea
A drive about the city, ending at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, Cadboro Bay, where tea was served, formed the chief item in the first day's programme arranged for the ladies who are in the city in connection with the convention of the Pacific Foreign Trade Council. Under the convener'ship of Mrs. J. O. Cameron, a committee of Victoria ladies was at the Empress Hotel yesterday morning to register the visiting ladies with a view to assuring their entertainment whilst they are in the city. About forty names were entered before the afternoon, and at 3 o'clock the guests and their hostesses, in cars provided by the latter, left for a drive about the city.

Sunshine favored the trip, and when the visitors arrived at the Yacht Club for tea they were enthusiastic in their comment about the gardens and beautiful views which they had seen en route. During the tea hour, made additionally enjoyable by Mrs. Aldous and Mrs. Charles Wilson's charmingly artistic arrangement of autumn foliage and late summer blooms massed about the pretty lounge at the Yacht Club, the guests chatted informally, preparing the way for the round of social events which has been prepared for the visitors' entertainment during the next two days. One of the Seattle ladies, on behalf of the visitors, made a little speech of cordial thanks for the afternoon's hospitality, which Mrs. J. O. Cameron explained, had been extended by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

Tomorrow afternoon the visitors are invited to a garden party at Government House, and in the evening there is to be a ball at the Empress Hotel, when the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be the host.

WAR CHANGED EUROPEAN TASTE

Pacific Coast Agricultural Products Have Found New Opportunities in Europe

HINTS GIVEN FOR EXPORT TRADE

Mr. William A. Schoenfeld, speaking on the European demand for Pacific Coast agricultural products, reviewed the situation that followed the war, when he had been delegated in 1924 to study European conditions from the agricultural standpoint, when addressing the Pacific Foreign Trade Council here yesterday afternoon.

The American taste for food in the way of wheat bread, canned milk and various other lines were introduced into Central Europe by the armies from the United States and Canada which went to the war. This was largely increased when the relief work following the war was undertaken.

The peoples of the European countries that had been accustomed to rye bread readily acquired a desire for wheat bread.

War hysteria resulted in the raising of high tariff walls one against the other, among the countries in Europe. This was to avoid loss of the means of subsistence, and in the stabilizing of currencies.

In spite of high tariff walls there were products that had to be taken from America. The higher yield of products in some lines in European countries was attended with higher cost of production and also higher land values.

CHANGING CONDITIONS
In Germany the agrarian section was politically strong. Germany had relieved the internal pressure on the grain situation here by allowing North American wheat to come in to replace export rye.

The orchard areas in Europe were not competitive with American fruit owing to the fact that there was not the coloring of the fruit in Europe, owing to neglect of cultural practices or natural conditions.

Northern Europe with the decreasing rainy season counteracted the situation by making their homes attractive and there was a tendency to be drawn to higher colored fruits than the country produced.

California fruit found its way into many of those countries. California, by the care taken to higher colored fruits than the country produced.

In dairy products a liking for canned milk was aroused. The speaker felt that in this line trade had been perhaps carried to its maximum. He however thought that something could be done along the line of using skim milk from here to be used in cooking especially.

The market for dried fruits and for certain grains would become better as various countries in Europe were having their affairs settled.

DRIED FRUIT

Barriers to the exportation of dried fruits were dealt with by Mr. William Fisher of San Francisco, who stirred the sentiment evident between two nations when their citizens met together and discussed matters of trade. There might come the time when artificial barriers between the United States and Canada might be done away with.

Dried fruits, raisins and currants, prunes, figs, represented varying percentages of exports from thirty to ten per cent.

California produced ninety per cent of the dried fruit production of the United States. In prunes it produced about two-thirds of the product of the north.

The cost had been added to in a line that was really waste, through the lack of co-operating. Canada has the best market for the United States in this line with Northern Europe constituting the next better market.

The industry must adopt co-operative methods in insuring that dried fruits may be used. The raisin producers had done a lot in this direction. Publicity was needed in all lines.

In the handling of the trade proper control might be introduced as was done in some other countries so that the very heavy productions that might be met with might be held back from the market at proper times.

The principle applied to the dried fruits might also be brought to effect, he thought, with butter, eggs and other lines. Difficulties met with, due to too ready a disposition to foster trade in foreign ports which had not been foreseen, were cited by the speaker. This in many instances resulted in unsatisfactory results in the export trade.

Giving Gifts to Boys And Girls a Mistake

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 15.—It is often a very mistaken kindness to give that wandering boy or girl a lift in your car when you meet him, or her, along the highway, according to a recent bulletin issued from the national headquarters of the American Automobile Association.

The American Motorist, which is the official publication of the A.A.A., has just completed a survey which shows that more than seventy per cent of the youthful down-and-outers, who become a burden on charitable organizations in large cities, have arrived at destitution via the "hitch-hiking" trail. Nine times out of ten, according to "The American Motorist," these boys and girls have simply succumbed to the age-old wanderlust, have left home without preparation or equipment and without a definite idea as to destination or as to what they want to do to support themselves.

Onlooker—"Surely, Mose, you don't expect to catch fish in that stream?"
Mose—"No, sah, I don't expect to. It's just showing my old woman I had no time to turn de wringer."

Giants and Cards Split Third Twin Bill; Pirates Win

Pittsburgh Climbs Pennantward, While St. Louis and New York Are Engaged in Furious Series in National League Pennant Race—Teams Are Deadlocked in Second Berth

NATIONAL LEAGUE

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 15.—Battling opportunist behind brilliant pitching by Carmen Hill, the Pittsburgh Pirates continued their march pennantward today by defeating Boston Braves 2-1. It was the Corsairs' fifth straight triumph over the Braves, their eighth victory in a row, and Boston's twelfth consecutive defeat. It marked at the same time Hill's twenty-second win of the season. He has been defeated nine times. He allowed only five hits.

R. H. E.
Pittsburgh 2 7 1
Boston 1 5 1
Batteries—R. Smith, Harrison and Urban; Hill and Smith.
Brooklyn-Chicago, rain.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 15.—The world champion Cardinals divided their third straight double-header with the Giants today and the two clubs continue in a tie for second place. The Giants won the first game by knocking Haines out of the box in three innings, piling up a six-run lead, and continued their lead to a final total of 11 to 3. The Cards took the closing battle by 8-5, darkness halting the contest after the New Yorkers had batted in the eighth.

R. H. E.
St. Louis 11 15 1
New York 3 12 4
Batteries—Faulkner, Benton and Taylor; Cummins, Haines, Johnson, Rhein, Reinhart and Snyder, Schulte.

Second game—R. H. E.
St. Louis 5 8 2
New York 8 7 2
Called darkness.
Batteries—Walker, Henry and Taylor; Frankhouse and Schulte.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Huggins' Men Lose

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The Cleveland Indians prevented the Yankees from winning their ninth game here today by taking the last of the series by 3-2. Uel yielding only seven hits, Langford, a Cleveland rookie, tried out by the Yankees several years ago, won the game in the sixth with a home run, scoring behind R. Sewell.

R. H. E.
Cleveland 3 12 4
New York 2 7 1
Batteries—Uel and Sewell; Thomas and Collins.

A Clean Sweep
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—The Athletics made a clean sweep of their three-game series with the Chicago White Sox by winning the final today 5-4. Jimmy Fox hit a home run with two on in the third round and gave the Mackmen a 4-0 lead that Chicago tied in the sixth.

R. H. E.
Philadelphia 5 10 1
Chicago 4 8 0
Batteries—Lyons and Croyle; Quinn and Cochrane.

Tigers About-Face
WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—After dropping three games in a row, the Detroit Tigers today won the last game of the series from the Senators, 6-5. The Tigers overcame an early lead in the seventh when two singles, a double and a homer by Manush, with one on netted four runs, giving them a lead they held.

R. H. E.
Detroit 6 5 1
Washington 5 9 0
Batteries—Gibson, Whitehill and Woodall; Burke, Braxton and Tate.

COAST LEAGUE
PORTLAND, Sept. 15.—Oakland took the first game of today's double-header, 4-1, but the Beavers came back and won the second by the same score, thus evening the series at two all. As San Francisco won, the Seals gained a half game on Oakland. In the first game a succession of smacking hits off Bill Hughes in the first inning, culminating in Arletti's slam over the fence with one on, gave the Oaks all four of their runs. In the second game the Beavers made a similar attack on Cooper in the fourth for their four tallies. Strand also homing with one on.

R. H. E.
Oakland 4 10 1
Portland 1 8 1
Batteries—Bohler and Read; Hughes, Yerkes and Yelle, Fischer.

Second game—R. H. E.
Oakland 4 10 1
Portland 1 8 1
Batteries—Cooper and Boole; Ortman and Yelle.

An Easy Success
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Los Angeles clubbed three Mission pitchers for a total of twenty-one hits today to romp home for an easy 13-3 victory. Except for an unsteady fourth inning, when the San Francisco club scored all its runs, Cunningham pitched stellar ball today.

R. H. E.
Los Angeles 13 21 0
Missions 3 6 1
Batteries—Cunningham and Sandberg; Ludolph, Christin and Baldwin.

That Fatal First

SEATTLE, Sept. 15.—Pete Sunseri, making his first start in Seattle, went wild from the beginning and Sacramento cinched the game in the first inning with five runs, winding up with 11 to 5.

R. H. E.
Sacramento 11 10 2
Seattle 5 7 3
Batteries—Vinci and Severi; Sunseri, Hoslick and Borreani, Cooper.

Hollywood Whiteashed

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15.—The San Francisco Seals defeated Hollywood, 4 to 0, in a tight game used mostly in which both clubs used mostly youngsters recently recalled from the minors.

R. H. E.
San Francisco 4 0 0
Hollywood 0 0 0
Batteries—Walker, Henry and Taylor; Frankhouse and Schulte.

Staging "Comeback" Difficult for Athletes

Golf Champion Says Luxury and Absence of Need to Struggle Reduce Contestant's Capacity—Old Incentive and Early Thrill Missing

By Walter Hagen

This is one of a series of timely articles being written for The Colonist and the Vancouver Times by Walter Hagen, the man who has held the American Professional Golf Championship since 1925, and who twice won both American and British Open Championships. Copyright, 1927, all rights reserved by North American Newspaper Alliance.

The most difficult thing for an athlete to do is to come back, a professional and in some line of sport, which makes it possible for him to earn sufficient money to live in comfort and more or less luxury. Virtually every professional athlete has nothing in the way of worldly goods when he starts his climb. He has been brought up without much money, and has lived a simple life.

After a man has become a champion, the scene changes. He has more money than he ever expected, an unlimited number of friends and admirers, all eager to entertain him and keep him up late at night. He eats richer food, sleeps in softer beds, and attends late parties.

MUCH TIME ON HANDS
Unlike the amateurs, who for the most part have business to attend to and must be up and about their work, the professional athlete has little to do but to practice and finds much time on his hands and plenty of money to spend.

These circumstances cause the champion to soften. Long before he has become a champion, he has been soft. In the old days Jack lived a rough and tumble life, and was a "tough" customer. But for some time before the first Tunney fight he had been softening. He may not have realized this himself, but no man can live in ease over a period of time and fail to soften.

EASY LIVING
A champion's associations all tend to take the toughness out of him, and no matter how hard he trains he cannot entirely eliminate the effects, physical and mental, of the years of easy living. Where before he looked upon life as a struggle, his viewpoint changes and no matter how many medicine balls he loses about, or how many times he works out in the gymnasium, he is a different man, and not as good.

So it takes a remarkable person to lay aside the fruits of victory and to continue along the same road he followed on his way up. Another thing that counts is that the old incentive is not there. After six trips to the British Isles to compete in the Kenilworth coast of England, and the same keenness I did the first time I stood on the sand dunes at Deal, on the Kentish coast of England, as a starter in the championship. I may try to keep myself in thinking I am as keen as I was not.

HAS HIS DOUBTS
I doubt very much if Jack Dempsey can ever feel again as he did in Toledo when he stepped into the ring with Jess Willard, the heavyweight champion at stake. I doubt very much if Gertrude Ederle could ever again get herself into the frame of mind which enabled her to muster up the courage

Champion Whips Himself Into Form For Ring Fight With Jack Dempsey

GENE TUNNEY IN TRAINING

Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight champion, whipping himself into fighting trim in preparation for his return bout with Jack Dempsey, former titleholder and present challenger, at Soldiers' Field, Chicago, next Thursday night. Here he is seen changing punches at his training camp at Lake Villa, Illinois, with Billie Vidaleck of Bayonne, New Jersey.

Training is ninety per cent of a prize fight, and if Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney are training—well, although Jeffries hadn't seen either one work out and didn't like to take hearsay evidence as fact, he plainly had his doubts.

Jim Jeffries Says He Doesn't See How Prize Fighting Can Be Made Social Sport and a Polite Profession

DISCUSSES HOW HE TRAINED FOR RING

Former Champion Declares That Soft Surroundings Make Boxers Soft—Can Still Outthike Younger Men

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—A hard swing to the cheek of a golf ball and a fast round with a pate de foie gras may be good training for a gentlemanly boxing convention, but they never have helped much for a marathon prize fight of another day, Jim Jeffries, former heavyweight champion of the world, said today.

New Orleans Beats Mobile to Annex Baseball Pennant

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 15.—The New Orleans Pelicans clinched the Southern Association pennant today by defeating Mobile 10-3. The victory gives the New Orleans team the right to meet the Wichita Falls team of the Texas League in the Dixie series for the Class A championship of the South.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—The indoor boxing season in Chicago will be opened the night of September 20, topped by a ten-round match between Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion, and Stanislaus Loayza.

My Sullivan, St. Paul middleweight, who has been working out with Dempsey, will box Morris Schlaifer, of Omaha, in the ten-round semi-final.

Public Choices Have Big Day at Colwood Track, Capturing Six of the Seven Races

CASTLE CROWN HIGHEST PAYER

Victor of Opening Event Rewards Backers With $13.95 on the Nose—Baltimore Has Three Wins

The gee-gees ran true to form yesterday at the Colwood race track on the fifth day of the present meet, with the result that the cash returns were much smaller than on the previous day. Only one double-figure price was shown during the seven races, and this in the first event, when Castle Crown, a third-choice mount, came to the wire and rewarded with $13.95 for a two-dollar investment on his nose. The next best price of the day was paid in the fourth race when Blue Mias returned $9.60 for a place bet.

An added feature of a day's first-class racing was the riding of Balentine, who brought three winners to the wire. Yesterday's crowd was good, and betting for the day was high. Only two more days of racing will be held on the mile track at Colwood, today and Saturday, before the curtain for 1927 racing season in British Columbia falls.

Castle Crown, who was in the pace all of the way came through in the stretch to win the opening race easily from Cas Welch and Black Sand, the latter horses leading the field alternately from the start, but went wide on entering the stretch and were unable to catch the winner. Cas Welch won place money from Black Sand by three-quarters of a length.

SLIPPER TO SLIPPER
Three favorites came to the winning post in the second event, led by Slipper to Slipper, who paid $2.25 for a nose bet. The winner came from behind in the stretch and closed strongly on Jim Rogan, the leader, to take the big share of the purse by half a length. The latter mount had no difficulty in capturing place money. Kiski jumped up in the stretch, taking the show position from Masters Sommers.

Cleo's Rochester, with Broadfoot up, took the honors in the third race by a length from Lawnmower. The winner moved up at the three-quarter, and although challenged by the pacemaker, was able to withstand the attempt and retain the lead of the field at the wire. Lawnmower paid $7.00 for a two-dollar place ticket. Greckling took third in the clear.

Snively, a favorite, moved fast in the stretch in the fourth race, and took first place by half a length from Blue Mias. Bivvora obtained the show money. The winning mounts were behind on entering the stretch, but showed their heels to the field on the home drive. Lucky Jim, led the field for a greater part of the way, but found the winners moving too rapidly for his liking in the stretch.

THE BEST FINISH
The best finish of the day was in the fifth race when Lawrence gained a nose decision over Irish Jure. The winner, ridden by Balentine, was the third mount brought to the wire by this popular jockey. Irish Jure was away to a good start, but the winner went to the front in the stretch and was able to hold off the dangerous threats of the pacemaker on the home drive.

Thelma C carried off the honors in the sixth race with Ping Pong steering the place. Herbert led the field for a greater part of the distance, but could not keep pace with the winners going up the hill on the way home and had to be content with taking the show position. Prior Truck was away to a good start, but the winner went to the front in the stretch and was able to hold off the dangerous threats of the pacemaker on the home drive.

Lady Pinnell, ridden by Rob-erts, set an early pace in the last event, set on the programme and although strongly challenged by Bernice E, a heavy favorite, was able to come to the wire by a length in front of the latter mount. Pat Mabrey took the show money.

TYNESIDERS DEFEAT DERBY COUNTY SOCCER AGGREGATION IN OLD COUNTRY

Everton Draws With Bolton—Arsenal Will Meet Sunderland in Important Match

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The First Division of the English soccer league saw another leader displaced in mid-week games, when Sunderland yielded pride of place to the league champions, Newcastle United, by virtue of the latter's victory on Wednesday over Derby County. This win pushed the Tynesiders one point ahead of their rivals. The Everton club were also engaged on Wednesday, but the best they could do on their own ground against Bolton Wanderers was to split the issue. On form all advantage is on the side of the Northumbrians. They play Everton on the latter's grounds Saturday. Huddersfield Town, which has the distinction of not having yet scored a victory this season, will entertain Manchester United on Saturday.

One of the most interesting of Saturday's games will be played at Highbury, where the home team, Arsenal, will be hosts to Sunderland. Arsenal have only met with one defeat this season, while their opponents have divided the points twice, but are still undefeated. The cup holders, Cardiff City, whose career has been punctuated with draws, are down to travel to Birmingham.

Other scheduled first string encounters are: Aston Villa at Burnley, Sheffield United at Bury, West Ham at Leicester, Derby County at Liverpool, Blackburn at Middlesbrough, Tottenham at Portsmouth, Bolton Wanderers at The Wednesday.

On his seventeenth birthday E. Steager, an organ builder, of Cowes, England, resolved to build a house for himself and his wife. He started in June, 1923, and has just completed a pretty ten-room, two-story red brick and tile residence. He plans to live in it for many years.

May Be Given Return Match With Major Goodsell, Champion Sculler

VANCOUVER, Sept. 15.—Major Goodsell, world's champion professional sculler, has received a cable from his backer in Australia, E. C. This means, Goodsell said, that if Bert Barry, the English champion, whom he defeated Labor Day, cares to file a challenge, it will be the first recorded for consideration.

KARL KEFFER WINS QUEBEC GOLF TITLE IN STIRRING MATCH

OTTAWA, Sept. 15.—Karl Keffer, veteran "pro" of the Royal Ottawa Club and twice Canadian open golf champion, captured the Quebec open title here this afternoon in a stirring playoff with Jack Young, assistant "pro" of the Royal Montreal Club. Keffer ran up two birdies and one eagle to amass a total of seventy-seven strokes under his opponent.

"That's a good idea, ma'am," said the new servant, "having soda and water in them bottles with equities. I've done the scullery floor in no time, and there's three left out of the dozen yet."

Tilden, Johnston, Lacoste, Hunter In Semi-Finals

Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, Two Great French Tennis Players, Eliminated From National Tourney—Vincent Richards Picks Lacoste to Carry Title Overseas

By VINCENT RICHARDS
Champion and former Davis Cup player. Special dispatch to The Colonist and North American Newspaper Alliance.
(Copyright in all countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.)
WESTSIDE TENNIS CLUB, FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 15.—If form is any criterion in tennis—and it usually is—then the United States will suffer the loss of the national singles championship as well as the historic Davis Cup.

Results of the first day of play on the green turf at the Westside tennis stadium is anything but reassuring. It is true that William T. Tilden and William M. Johnston, America's mainstay in the defense of the cup and national titles, well won their respective matches this afternoon, but their playing form was a bitter disappointment to their admirers.

"Big Bill" Tilden managed to squeeze through a peculiar match against Jean Borotra at 6-1, 3-6, 10-8, 6-1. This puts Tilden in the semi-final round of the tournament, where he will encounter his doubles partner, F. T. Hunter.

THROWING A POINT
Of the Tilden-Borotra match little can be said of the tennis, but much can be written about the antics of each player on the court. It must be admitted that both players have been under a terrific mental strain for the past six months preparing for the Davis Cup matches, but even this can hardly excuse them from some of their actions. Before the match had progressed very far it became a question as to which one would throw a point at the other. The more one saw of this the more it became apparent that some definite rule will have to be made concerning the throwing of points in the future, if the game is to hold its high standard of the past.

Rene Lacoste, playing even greater tennis than he displayed at the Germantown Cricket Club last week in the Davis Cup matches, entered the semi-final round by virtue of a hard-fought victory over Manuel Alonso at 6-8, 6-4, 1-6, 6-2.

Lacoste, on his present form, looks a certain winner of the tournament. In Alonso he encountered a determined foe, whom he has met on many occasions, both in this country and abroad, but it mattered little what the Spaniard had to offer, for Rene was always ready to go him one better.

LACOSTE VS. JOHNSTON
Lacoste will meet Johnston tomorrow for the prize of the Davis Cup. Johnston displayed yesterday against Jacques Brugnon, whom he defeated in four sets at 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4. Lacoste looks like an absolute finalist. Even with Brugnon rated far below his fellow-countrymen in where he will play, "Little Bill" had his troubles. The old "zip" was not in his step or his famous forearm drive. At times he would flash a few strokes of the variety that made him the most feared player on the courts last season, only to later lapse into errors that made his playing mediocre.

On the respective form of Lacoste and Johnston that was in evidence today, it is hardly conceivable that the Californian will reach the final round.

F. T. Hunter's victory over John Hennessey in the first of the matches today was more or less a question of stamina. The powerful Hunter, who has been playing the greatest tennis of his career this year, was on his toes every minute of the match and his final victory at 4-6, 5-7, 6-0, 6-3, 6-4, was a well-earned one.

HENNESSEY VANQUISHED
Hennessey was undoubtedly feeling the effects of his grueling encounter with Henry Cochet yesterday. But it is doubtful if even with a full day's rest the Indianapolis youth could have gotten by the hard-hitting Hunter. It is the first time that the New Rochelle man has been privileged to enter the sacred realm of the semi-finals, and it looks to see him give Tilden a hard run in their match tomorrow. Certainly if the question of stamina ultimately decides the encounter, Hunter will have the edge. It is doubtful if there has ever been a player in the first ten who has had the unlimited supply of energy that Hunter has.

However, a cool, calculating survey of the tournament leads me to predict that Tilden and Lacoste will again face each other in the final round on Saturday. If this is the case, then I again say that the national singles title will be carried overseas along with the Davis Cup. Lacoste has a determined concentration about him to retain his championship, and with that he has confidence—probably the most important attribute in any line of athletic endeavor.

GENE PUTS IN BUSY 8 HOURS

Tunney Goes Six Rounds With Sparring Partners Before 2,000 Fans—Says He Is Ready for Fight

NEWSPAPERMAN SEE JACK BOX

LAKE VILLA, Ill., Sept. 15.—With but a week before facing Jack Dempsey in defence of the heavyweight championship, Gene Tunney put in his busiest eight hours since arriving here more than two weeks ago. Tunney was examined by Dr. J. L. Russell, representing the Illinois State Boxing Commission before working out ten rounds. More than 2,000 spectators watched.

Gene boxed three sparring partners two rounds each and punched his way through a heavy bag on the other round. The workout, Tunney's first in three days and the beginning of the final drive for perfection, amounted to little more than heavy exercise for the champion. Tunney boxed with speed and deftness but missed frequently with both hands and his timing appeared to be a bit rusty.

Dr. Russell, who pronounced Dempsey a "perfect physical specimen" several days ago, declared that Gene was "normal in every respect" after the examination.

Tunney is satisfied with his condition at the present time and believes he could enter the ring tomorrow close to his best fighting weight. In fact, Gene did most of the heavy training work at Speculator, N.Y. In five months of leisurely boxing, returning to his camp today, Gene reiterated that he was "ready" and had little more training to do before entering the ring for his first title defense.

DEMPEY IN ACTION

LINCOLN FIELDS, CRETE, Ill., Sept. 15.—In the cool of the evening and to the accompaniment of flashlights, Jack Dempsey boxed in the presence of newspapermen tonight for the first time within a week. The former world's heavyweight champion spent thirteen rounds of glove work, knocking out one of his opponents. Dempsey looked healthy and formidable but did not look loose with all he has except against Whitey Allen, a 185-pounder, from Boston, who fell a victim to a left hook which sent him sprawling to the floor.

Dempsey lost only one round of the six tonight. That was to Big Boy Peterson, New Orleans heavyweight. He permitted Peterson to throw gloves at him for a full minute before fighting back.

Dempey's first opponent was Dave Shade. Then he took on Peterson. Whitey Allen followed, with Alton Brown, Joe Gans, Roy Williams and Bennie Kruger in the order named. Dempsey was dripping with perspiration when he finished with Kruger.

NOT KEEN ABOUT IT

LONDON, Sept. 15.—British sporting writers already are beginning to pour cold water on the idea of holding a championship heavyweight boxing contest at Wembley next year as Tex Rickard is reported from the United States to be considering it.

One of the chief objections offered is the fact that the Wembley Stadium is six miles out of the city, while an Evening News sports writer says that "it is very improbable that the British public would pay heavily to see two American boxers fight."

KENT BOWLING STAR MAY TOUR AFRICA

LONDON, Sept. 15.—A. P. Freeman, the Kent, England, slow bowler in cricket matches, has accepted an invitation to join the English eleven, which will tour South Africa during the winter.

More than half the crude rubber and about half of the tin used in this country now comes from British Malaya.

Doc Snell Tries For Kayo in Vain; Beaten by Glick

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—In a fast and furious ten round slugfest, Joe Glick of New York, tonight won the decision over Doc Snell, of Tacoma, Washington. Snell weighed 130½ and Glick 130. Glick spent his time piling up points, while Snell spent his trying for a knockout. Honeyboy Finnegan, Boston lightweight, took the decision over Billy Grimes, of Australia, in ten rounds. Neither was in danger or bad shape. Finnegan weighed 130; Grimes 127½.

GOLFERS REACH SEMI-FINALS

Four Players Are Left in Running for Totem Pole Trophy, Emblematic of Championship

NOEL JONES GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT

JASPER PARK LODGE, Alta., Sept. 15.—A Vancouver player, either R. P. Baker, of the Jericho Club, or Harry A. Jones, of the Shaughnessy Heights Club, will run up against either J. L. Bell, of Calgary, or Stanley Thompson, of Toronto, in the final for the famous totem pole trophy, emblematic of the championship of the Jasper Park golf tournament, which will be played here Saturday forenoon.

Stanley Thompson, J. Leslie Bell, Harry A. Jones and R. P. Baker today progressed as far as the semi-finals, the two first mentioned being in the upper half of the draw and the latter two in the lower half. Thompson eliminated Noel Jones, of Vancouver, 3 and 1. Bell was winner over D. Macdonald, of Jasper, 3 and 2. Jones had a very easy victory over J. R. Washburn, of Vancouver, 6 and 3, while Baker reached the semi-final round by defeating J. E. Morrill, of Honolulu, at the eighteenth green.

CLOSELY CONTESTED

With the exception of the Harry A. Jones-J. R. Washburn match, all the others in the championship flight were closely contested and the issue hung in the balance for most of the way. Against Stanley Thompson, Noel Jones was one down at the turn, but the edge was with the Toronto golfer on the home-coming time and a close struggle finished on the seventeenth green when Thompson, who had had his rival dormy two, got the necessary half in four.

J. Leslie Bell, of Calgary, was given a surprisingly good match by D. Macdonald, of Jasper. The Calgary man found his opponent playing pretty well to the top of his game all through the first nine holes, but managed to make the turn one up.

As in the Jones-Thompson match, however, Bell stepped out and lengthened his lead and a decision was reached in the sixteenth. Bell getting the bracket by a 3 and 1 margin.

HAS EASY VICTORY

Harry A. Jones, present holder of the Jasper championship and trophy, had little or no trouble in disposing of J. R. Washburn, a fellow clubman of the Shaughnessy Heights Club, by a score of 6 and 5. Jones, who is the ruling favorite to repeat his last year's victory, did not play his best brand of golf, figured from medal score standpoint, but he was fully alive to all the advantage of openings offered by Mr. Washburn and made the most of them.

R. P. Baker, of the Jericho Club, Vancouver, was given the most interesting fight of a nip-and-tuck argument by J. E. Morrill before he finally succeeded in winning on the last green. Coming to the seventeenth green, Morrill was one up on Baker. Playing his second shot on the seventeenth fairway, however, Baker putted over into the bunker to the left of the green and lost the hole. Morrill's chances improved appreciably as a result, but Morrill hooked his tee shot into the rough, got a bad lie for his brassie second, and the match was over to all intents and purposes right there. The hole was a half in, but that was as good as Baker needed.

Tomorrow Thompson meets Bell and Harry Jones meets Baker. To determine the finalists and a couple of high-class games are looming up.

IN THE OTHER FLIGHTS

In the other flights the semi-finals were also reached as follows:
Second Flight
E. W. Hamber, Vancouver, won from D. Skiles, Jasper, 4 and 2.

SHIRLEY The Girl Who Leaped Into Life

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

CHAPTER LII

Shirley had no intention of going to Ted Morton's party. In fact, she had hardly given it a second thought.

"I'm afraid I'll be too busy; I'm working like the well-known beaver," she had said to Ted over the telephone, and to herself had added, "Besides, I'm in no mood for gambling on the green."

But when, late in the afternoon, at the close of a conference, the head advertising man at Wilding's remarked, "You know Ted Morton, don't you?" her mood had changed. She was sorry she had declined the invitation. The half grudge of continuing work had steady grind of continuing work had brought its own reaction. She felt light and irresponsible, ready to throw plans and page proofs to the winds and seek relief in people and gaiety from that constant, empty feeling which work pushed out of her consciousness but did not kill. "I told him I didn't think I could," she said uncertainly.

"Oh, come on," Mr. Curry urged. "Let's go together. I'll tell you what, you run home now and change. We'll have dinner somewhere and then run out to Morton's afterwards."

The suggestion gave Shirley's indecision just the push it needed. Morton's parties were of the sort where guests who changed their minds at the last minute caused no inconvenience. He was an advertising artist of a day when advertising uses—and pays highly—for ultra moderns whom Mr. Hylan would have classified contemptuously as "art artists."

Morton's daring originality of line and color did not adorn every magazine and him the praises of every product only because his services were very expensive. His original drawings had a way of hanging, framed, in the private offices of the presidents of large corporations, to be referred to with proud casualness. "That's a Morton, you know. Queer stuff, but he's a genius. And Lord, you don't starve genius these days. You're more likely to starve yourself meeting its bills."

But there were large holes in Ted's pockets, rapidly filled though they might be. The house he had just built on Russian Hill, with a large glassed-in balcony like an overhanging the Bay, represented a rare triumph of thrift on his part. "I make money like a movie queen and I spend it like a drunken sophomore," he said of himself, with considerable truth. Shirley had met him through Jim; indeed, he also said of himself with truth that he "knew everybody around the Bay except the people that get their names into the society columns."

Shirley viewed herself with some satisfaction before she snapped off the bedroom light. She wore a slim, straight frock of soft satin, of a green darker than emerald, picked out here and there with touches of tarnished gold. It came from the French room at Wilding's, where Shirley, through her connection with the store, had bought it at a discount. Her hair glowed above it like copper. It brought out topaz lights in her eyes. And her slim, straight body carried its lines of tricky simplicity like a nymph.

"Not so bad," said Shirley with her habitual understatement. She did not belong to the school that says to the mirror, "I am beautiful." However, it rested in her mind that to wear a frock like that, and to look like that in it, was calculated to bring cheer to any heart, however badly bruised it might be.

But she was not to have that sense of satisfaction long. For she had not been in Morton's crowded rooms for more than a quarter of an hour when her eyes met Jim's—and the frock dropped out of her world as if the French room and the bargain basement were one and the same. He was standing quite near her, with Edith beside him; as he turned and saw her his eyes blazed upon her with that incredible deep blueness of aquamarine which they acquired in moments of overpowering excitement. They blazed love upon her with burning, inescapable light, until she unconsciously laid her hand upon her heart, where it leaped and pounded like a machine gone wild.

"Jim!" she gasped. Her voice was low, but there was no question that he heard it. She thought he would have heard if she had not spoken at all. "Come out to the balcony. I must talk to you." They passed through the crowd with no more sense of its substantiality than if it had been made of the blue-grey plumes of smoke that drifted in the upper air.

The balcony was lit from the room within by wide plate-glass windows. But when they had closed the door it was cut off in a world of silence. A searchlight cleaved the sky in front of them. Far below, beyond a tangle of lights, ferry-boats twinkled their way across the bay in moving patterns. But their world had no need of lights, no need of beauty. The balcony had become the inside of a fire opal.

"Jim," Shirley said at once, "I was wrong, utterly wrong. I've been a long time learning it, but I see it now. I've got to tell you. I made two awful mistakes. In the first place, it wasn't fair, the way I told you. I—shoved out a load of coal on your head and then I blamed you because you didn't brush it all off immediately as if it had been—snowflakes. But that wasn't the worst. I didn't even play by my own rules. I said you ought to take me as I was, in spite of anything—and then I didn't take you that way, Jim. Suppose I did think you failed me. Don't you see I ought to have known that that didn't matter either—that that, too, was just one of the things love, if it's strong enough, could take up into itself?" Her words tumbled out in a rush, like a stream that has flowed long underground and emerges into the light.

"I guess we don't need to explain anything, Shirley." Jim found himself crushing her hands against his breast, clinging to them as if he could never let them go. "I know you now. I know you as you are, not as something I made up for myself. You're far more splendid than any dream. I understand now, forever and always. You know I love you, Shirley."

"Yes," Shirley murmured. "I know." "And I've got to let you go. I don't even have to ask you to understand. You will anyway. Only I didn't dare hope I could ever tell you. That makes up for a lot. Like a blind idiot, I let Edith fall in love with me, and I gave her some cause —sufficient, anyway—to suppose that I felt the same. I drifted like a dumb log, and now it's too late. We're engaged to be married."

"I—see," Shirley said slowly. "She didn't tell me."

"I suspect that she was afraid—that she knows somewhere, where she doesn't acknowledge it, that I love you. She can't help it—she believes because she wants to believe. But somewhere underneath she isn't sure—because it isn't the truth."

Very gently Shirley released her hands.

"We can't hurt Edith, Jim—either of us. We've lost—our game, Jim. We've misplayed it. But we can win something. We can play by the rules, even when it hurts—terribly. And I'm glad to know. Nothing can ever take from us this knowledge of each other, dearest. And we can both carry on somehow—because we know. We're beaten; but we haven't defaulted. And we must go now, or Edith will wonder where you've been."

"WETTEST" SPOT IN THE SOVIET UNION

VORONEJ, Russia, Sept. 15.—The Usman locality of the Voronej Province with a population of some ten thousand people appears to be the "wettest" spot in the Soviet Union. It is reported that during the last year it has consumed 109,000 gallons of State-produced vodka, representing a sum of $440,000—equalling the yearly budget of the locality—not counting a similar amount of moonshine alcohol, beer and liquors consumed.

Explosion of the Sun Would Destroy Earth

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—An explosion of sun, similar to that which occurred recently on the star Nova Aquila of 1927, as it is designated, would bring death and destruction to the earth, according to Professor E. B. Frost, of Yerkes Observatory.

The expansion, or explosion of the star, similar in type to the sun, was announced recently by Dr. Max Wolff, of Heidelberg University, and confirmed by photographs taken at Harvard University.

"These actions," Professor Frost said, are believed to be due to sudden trigger-like release of inter-atomic energy, due very likely to the unbelievable heat of the sun's interiors. Temperatures inside the stars vary from 500,000,000 to 100,000,000 degrees Fahrenheit."

Illustrating energy contained in atoms and what could be accomplished if it could be released and utilized, the professor said a glass of water contained enough energy to send the Mauretania across the Atlantic Ocean and back. Or it would send all the automobiles in the country from Chicago to New York and return.

"This energy, suddenly released, drives from the stars the encircling gaseous shells which reach the planets in the wake of shrieking heat. The stars are not destroyed by the explosions, the nucleus remains and in time acquires another gaseous shell," the professor said.

"The heat from an explosion of the sun would reach the earth in about eight minutes and would be followed by the deadly gases in 138 hours. Should the explosion be

1,000 times the sun's present size, the heat would make life on the earth impossible anywhere but at the Poles, and not long then. Should the explosion be 30,000 times its size, as was Nova Aquila of 1918, destruction of life would be but a matter of a few minutes over the entire earth, which would be shrivelled up."

MAY "CANADIAN" BE RACE STATED?

OTTAWA, Sept. 15.—Efforts to bring to the attention of Canadians a concise understanding of Canadian citizenship were recommended at today's session of the annual conference of the Association of Canadian Clubs, and the matter was referred to the executive. A further recommendation was also adopted to bring to the attention of the Census Department the advisability of putting the question regarding racial origin last on the census papers in future.

The resolution embracing these recommendations was brought before the conference by Mrs. Claude Nash of Winnipeg, on behalf of the Committee on Resolutions, and seconded by Mrs. Charles H. Thiburn, of Ottawa. The original recommendation came from the Canadian Club of Victoria, B.C. Mrs. Nash, in introducing the matter, gave an instance of a Canadian citizen who explained to her that his name had a German spelling, and despite the fact that there were four generations of his forebears buried in Canada, he was still required by the census to declare his racial origin as German.

HIGH FREIGHT RATES ANALYZED

Statement Made to Foreign Trade Council by Proctor in Admiralty in Seattle

Mr. W. H. Hayden, proctor in Admiralty, of Seattle, before the Pacific Foreign Trade Council yesterday afternoon went into some of the causes for high freight rates in marine shipping, and also the high rates of insurance charged. He laid no small blame for these increased rates on the action of the United States legislative bodies, his remarks being applicable for the most part to the United States.

In dealing with the question of the increased charges for shipments of goods and for insurance Mr. Hayden, who had to leave after his address to meet an urgent professional call, dealt with the subject along lines that were of great interest to the men engaged in the shipping line, and also to those who had to meet the added costs in consequence of this aspect of the situation which had been dealt with. Port charges, carelessness in packing, and mistakes in legislation were all designated as having their part in the adding to the costs under the two heads with which he dealt. These, rather than the attempt to derive large profits on the part of those engaged in the lines of business referred to, were responsible for the greater part of the added costs, he argued.

MR. W. H. HAYDEN

The stevedoring charges had had some effect upon the situation, and in this regard he referred to legislation that had made the situation press heavily upon the transportation companies. The safety of stevedores was made obligatory upon the companies, according to judgments in the courts, which all added to the costs to be carried by shipping charges.

Then the laws governing American shipping as to measurements and in other added costs of operations the passage of American ships through the Panama was made higher than it was for foreign ships to make the voyage. There were other matters in the United States laws that made the operation of American bottoms more expensive than other vessels.

Peer Finds Troubles Never Come Singly

When Lady Tennington recently sued for a divorce from her husband, the well-known politician, financier and publisher, she revealed the existence of an affair which has subsequently meant nothing but trouble for him. While voluntary exile in France, Lord Tennington's legal business fell to pieces, other of his interests became involved in the bankruptcy court, and he himself, while on his way back to England to endeavor to bring some order out of the chaos of his affairs, was placed under arrest by an overzealous French policeman and suffered a nervous collapse, which still prevents him from returning to England.

At The Playhouses

PLAYHOUSE Believing that 1927 will find more masculine beauty in motion picture comedies than ever before, Johnny Hines began the year right by signing his quota of male sex appeal for his latest First National picture, "All Aboard," now showing at the Playhouse Theatre. One of the outstanding representatives of masculine beauty in the cast is Frank Hagney, who makes a splendid running mate for Sojin, the Chinese actor. After interviewing a score of available blondes, Johnny Hines said he preferred Edna Murphy, and promptly signed her to play the leading feminine role opposite him in his new comedy.

COLUMBIA Is the horse vanishing along with the old West? The answer is given in the affirmative by a number of the old timers. The old time freight wagons that left their tracks across the great American West have been replaced by motor trucks. But cowboys still ride the range mounted on their ponies. And in the army posts of the far West, the cavalryman still reigns supreme. Among these are men who still know all the tricks of horsemanship. For, after all, a horse is the only method of transportation over the narrow trails of the Western open country. Horsemanship at its finest is to be seen in "Quicksands," now showing at the Columbia Theatre, starring Richard Dix.

DOMINION Victor Fleming made "Mantrap" and "Mantrap" more than any other picture made Clara Bow! The flighty little manicurist of Sinclair Lewis' story, with her imitable trick of "holsting" her short skirt, will never be forgotten. Well, they're together again! When production on Paramount's "Hula" was started, Associate Producer B. P. Schulberg assigned Mr. Fleming to the Bow until he resigned. The result, as may be imagined, is an entertainment riot. "Hula" will be shown at the Dominion Theatre today and tomorrow. Clive Brook appears as Clara's leading man.

BARBARA BRONELL
Well-known dancing star of Charles George's "Sensations of 1927," playing at the Royal Victoria Theatre tonight.

CAPITOL New blood, new ideas, THEATRE fresh viewpoints. These are the things that to the future development of motion pictures. The famous Paramount star, whose latest comedy, "Service for Ladies," now showing at the Capitol Theatre, is never so happy as when he is surrounded by new blood, people with fresh ideas. In his current production, Kathryn Carver, playing the leading feminine role, is a Menjou discovery. The stage attractions included in this week's bill are: Mary Louis Treen and "Skeeter" Hartwell, lady bugs from Panchon & Marco's gorgeous stage presentation, "The Bug's Innovation," which last week played to crowded houses at the Strand Theatre in Vancouver, and the Lady Harpists Trio Supreme, who have been held over for another week, in an entirely new programme.

"Sensations of 1927" Revue Opens Tonight At Royal Victoria

With the coming of the far-heralded musical review, "Sensations of 1927," to the Royal Theatre tonight, it will, no doubt, be of interest to theatregoers to know that Charles George, the author, composer and, in fact, the producer of this musical offering, will appear in the leading male role.

Mr. George not only wrote the book, lyrics and music for "Sensations of 1927," but he designed the marvelous costumes, superintended the building of the gorgeous scenic settings, worked out the bewildering lighting effects and staged the production, a feat seldom heard of in this day of modern show business at a time when it is not unusual for producers to call upon no less than ten authors, designers, composers and stage managers to write and assemble a spectacular revue, but it was Mr. George's life-long effort and the outcome of his boyhood dreams to some day give the world a great production composed and produced by his own hand. George hails from Maryland, where he received his education, but at the age of sixteen found his way to the stage and in a few short years was one of America's foremost authors. His musical numbers have been recorded, broadcast and hummed in the four corners of the earth. He is a gifted musician and possesses an unusual voice.

Fuel and Space Saved By House Insulation

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Cattle hair, states a recent report of the United States Bureau of Standards at Washington, transmits less heat than any other known insulator. The engineers of the bureau, after a number of experiments, decided that Mother Nature had chosen pretty well when they had examined the insulation qualities of cattle hair.

The value of this insulating material in the walls and roof of a house, as a protection against objectionable heat and cold, was quickly recognized by one manufacturer. The efficiency of any insulating material depends upon the quantity of dead air cells it possesses to a given area. The number of such cells is greater in cattle hair than in any other known insulator.

"In preparing cattle hair for the insulation of houses," recently remarked a local representative of Johns-Manville Corporation of New York, "it is first thoroughly cleaned and sterilized." This makes it vermin proof and odorless. It is then stitched in layers, quilt fashion, between the thickness of building paper and a waterproof sheet.

"But aside from comfort thus obtained—for the inhabitants of a house, there is an economic saving obtained by house insulation which represents a definite conserving of the coal pile."

The late Charles F. Steinmetz, one of the world's greatest electrical engineers, said that this country loses annually hundreds of millions of dollars for the want of proper insulation in its buildings. These are times when the annual cry is for the conservation of our resources, particularly our fuel resources. The saving of a million or two tons of coal each year is a matter, therefore, which should compel the attention of everyone. We can save our fuel supply, but in the last analysis, it becomes largely the work of the individual—the builder of the house. If houses are built with proper insulation, the amount of radiation necessary to heat them will be decreased. And every decrease in the amount of radiation means an equivalent saving in the family coal pile.

"Dick and Dennis were quarrelling over which should have the bigger half an apple," announced Mary, "but I soon settled it."
"That's a good girl," said her mother. "Whose part did you take?"
"I took both their parts," was the answer.

WELCOME GIVEN TO DELEGATES

Mr. William Pigott, President of Pacific Foreign Trade Council, Delivers Address

MR. SCHWENGERS MADE CHAIRMAN

Before a large gathering of delegates, nearly 400 in all, Mr. William Pigott, of Seattle, president of the Pacific Coast Foreign Trade Council, opened the first session of the fifth annual convention now in progress at the Empress Hotel.

"In performing the duty of calling the Pacific Foreign Trade Council to order it is especially gratifying to find so many delegates in attendance from the western coast of North America and so many of our friends as guests and delegates from other parts of the world," Mr. Pigott stated in his opening remarks.

"This gathering in Victoria brings a newer and broader significance to the work of the organization. Heretofore we have met each time within the bounds of the United States. Now we are assembled in a Canadian port, widely known throughout the world, and realize as never before the community of commercial interest of the country west of the Rocky Mountains irrespective of international boundary lines.

"With the addition of Mexico as an active participant in our proceedings, we shall become more truly representative than ever of the unity of the commercial forces which will make this Western country and both shores of the Pacific most serviceable in meeting the needs of our people through the channels of goodwill and commerce.

"This is the true measure of our purpose and our opportunity. We must stick to the subjects which bring us together, and this involves a free exchange of ideas, views and experiences in furthering development of the trade and commerce of the various ports and of the long stretch of territory falling within the jurisdiction of this Council.

NOT TO CONTEST TRADE
"One thing I know is well recognized by us all. We are not engaged in a contest for a division of the shipping and trades already built up by the many years of tireless efforts of others. That is not the work we are striving to do, but instead are trying to create new demands and find new markets, of which there are many. We want to make all of the products of each country familiar to the others so that we can create new markets, new uses, and new appetites for our respective products. That is what we mean by expansion of foreign trade.

"Before turning this meeting over to your permanent chairman, Mr. Schwengers, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, I want to repeat that the trade, the shipping business, and the cultural development of the country west of the Rocky Mountains bordering on the Pacific Ocean is, without provincialism, our first and greatest responsibility," Mr. Pigott concluded.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the compliment to the City of Victoria in asking one of her citizens to preside at the first session of this convention," Mr. C. P. W. Schwengers, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, stated in taking over the chairmanship of the meeting.

ITS CHARACTER
"The Pacific Foreign Trade Council is a domestic organization, representative of the industrial life of the Pacific Coast of the United States, and deals solely with the development of the export trade of that country. The decision to hold the meeting on Canadian soil was a mark of friendship and desire for co-operation with the Canadian people, which we heartily reciprocate.

"May I say further that I think there was also a realization of the potentialities of the great North and South trade between Canada and the United States."

"The speaker pointed out that the first interest of America was its domestic trade and Canada's her own people within the borders of the Empire. But when this function had been fulfilled there still remained a vast foreign trade. Canada, producing far more than she required, saw a profitable market to the south of her, while in the other hand America sees a vast country to her north sparsely populated destined for great development as she has developed in the past seventy-five years.

COMMUNITY OF INTEREST

"Here we have, therefore, a community of interest in foreign trade development of a most alluring nature, offering a reward to each other by way of recompense for energy expended far in excess of that pertaining in any other quarter. This trade route is served with facilities unequalled anywhere, linked up by rapid means of communication by rail and water, telephone and telegraph, offering the lines of least resistance, and a trade route that can hardly be impaired by any world disturbance. No cloud is on the horizon to restrict the advantages of joint energy expended in this direction, and requires only the one fundamental necessity associated with all foreign trade to produce the maximum results, and that is the friendship of the two peoples. That this has been of a uniformly progressive character during the last two decades has been apparent to us all, and the present Foreign Trade Conference, attended as it is by so representative a gathering from both countries, should be utilized to the full for our mutual benefit."

The speaker extended a welcome to representatives from other Canadian Provinces who were attending as guests and to delegates from foreign lands.

Coat Breeders to Meet

The monthly meeting of the Victoria branch of B.C. Coat Breeders' Association will be held Monday evening next at 8 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. Building.
